BUSINESS BLOCK IS BURNED

Tenants Trapped by Flames Are Burned to Death—Two Perish Leaping From Blazing Building.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Oct. 30.—Search of the ruins of the Citizens' Savings Bank block, destroyed by a fire in which nine persons lost their lives and seven others were seriously injured, was continued this afternoon in the belief that other bodies lay buried there.

The exact number of roomers in the building is not known. The authorities decided that the number of dead could only be determined after a thorough search of the ruins.

Seven bodies were taken from the ruins. Of the nine dead, two died after jumping from the burning building. Two of the injured are dying at the Brightlook Hospital.

Five others are in a serious condition. At least seven others besides these were slightly injured and treated without going to the hospital. Their names were not taken.

Nine Persons Dead.

The dead are:

MISS ROSE MASSEY, a waitress in the restaurant where the fire is believed to have started.

STEVEN CUSHMAN, a carpenter.

MRS. CUSHMAN.

BERNICE CUSHMAN, a nine-year-old child.

MRS. MAY SLEEPER.

HERBERT B. TANNER.

MRS. TANNER.

All of the bodies have been recovered with the exception of that of Mrs. Sleeper. That has been located and will be taken out later.

The injured are:

LEONARD POPE, dying at the hospital.

MRS. C. P. DAVIE, dying.

WILLIAM E. POPE, severely burned.

RAY SMITH, seriously burned.

GUY CHENEY, severely burned.

CARL HOWE, severely burned.

Many in Tenements.

The upper part of the building was divided into nine tenements. These were sub-let to roomers. The exact number of people in the tenements is not known. All of those who rented tenements have been accounted for. It is feared that there may be roomers whose bodies have not been recovered.

The loss on the building will reach $60,000, and the total loss is estimated at $125,000.

The fire occurred on the anniversary of the destruction of the building on the same spot seventeen years ago.

When the firemen arrived scores of people leaned from the windows imploring the firemen to save them. Ladders were run up, but were found to be too short. Many escaped by ropes from the windows.

Killed by Fall.

Charles Ranlet attempted to reach one of the ladders by climbing down a rope hand over hand. Before he reached the ladder he lost his grip and fell to the pavement. His skull was fractured and he died instantly.

The firemen were unable to check the flames, so confined their efforts to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining structures.

Efforts were made to cool the ruins so that search could be made for the missing people, but the structure was filled with smoke and flame and search was impossible for some time.

The occupants of the building were C. E. Stolliker & Son, restaurant; Citizens' Savings Bank, Merchant & Larchin, jewelry; Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Dr. C. M. Richmond, dentist, and a dozen lawyers and insurance agents.

SLAYER FOUND, A SUICIDE

SOUTH BRAINTREE, Oct. 30.—Shot dead by his own hand, the body of James J. Miller, the young Braintree man who killed his child wife Thursday in Braintree, was found to-day in the cellar of Judge A. F. A. French's house, 100 yards away from where the wife had been slain.

At the same time the man's body was found and while armed detectives and volunteers were searching the country side for Miller, a witness, Fred Johnson, turned up and declared that Miller had shot himself in the mouth immediately after killing his wife, but that the bullet not proving instantaneously fatal, the man had hurried away.

Bullet Wound in Mouth.

A bullet wound was found in Miller's mouth, and it is evident that he had jumped into the cellar of the nearby house to die. Life lingered, however, and before he became unconscious he fired a second bullet into his head, and this killed him. The body had lain forty hours unsuspected in the French cellar, while the two daughters of the late Judge French had lived upstairs, all unconscious of the gruesome body beneath them.

Miller's body was removed to the laundry of the French house, where an autopsy was held by Medical Examiner Fraser. In the right hand coat pocket of the dead man was found four thirty-two-calibre bullets. In the right hand trousers pocket was an open pearl handle pocket knife.

Before shooting himself Miller had first slashed the knife across his throat. There were two gashes, one starting at the left ear, the other at the right. Both of these cuts were too slight to sever the windpipe.

On the left temple of the dead man is a bruise which may have been caused when he fell after shooting himself. On the other hand, it may have been caused by the grazing of a bullet.

Andrew Wilson, the caretaker of the French estate, had been in the cellar of the large house frequently since the time of the tragedy in South Braintree square. But he had had no occasion to go to the coal bin. To-day he went there and was startled to see, lying on a pile of coal, a man's form, the face covered with blood. He knew in a moment who it was. A revolver, lying by Miller's side, showed plainly the cause of death. Miller, driven to desperation, had committed suicide.

Police in Long Hunt.

After he shot his wife, Miller had retreated slowly along the French road, which leads into a nearby wood. The known witnesses of the shooting were too excited to notice clearly what happened, but they were convinced that Miller had run into the woods.

The police, led by State Detective Scott, armed themselves and searched these woods, expecting a battle with Miller. When he was not found they extended their hunt in all directions, even going as far as Plympton. To-day, reinforced by volunteers and still expecting an armed fight in the woods if Miller should be cornered, they started a more systematic man-hunt. It was about this time that Wilson made his find in the French cellar.

"The body might have been there since

WEST POINT, Oct. 30.—Society in full force turned out to see the Crimson and the Army fight for football supremacy on the plains to-day. Long before the time for the game to begin the long winding road leading from the depot at the foot of the hill presented a continuous procession of color as train after train and boats unloaded their throngs of football enthusiasts.

All the schools and seminaries along the Hudson sent their quota and the black, gold and grey of the Army, mingled with the Crimson of Harvard, with a background of the varied colored plumage of the hundreds of pretty girls presented a picture that was in itself worthy of the trip.

Luck Always Harvard's.

Harvard had not played at the academy since 1907, and the Crimson had always been successful in their contests with the soldiers, although history recorded that the Cambridge boys' luck in each instance had been something of a factor in the victories.

The Cadets were not in as good shape to-day as when Yale defeated them by a 17 to 0 score, but they were confident that Harvard would not equal the showing that the Blue made. Pullen's absence was a hard blow to the Cadets, but a defeat by Harvard meant less to the Soldiers than the final game with the Navy, so no chances were taken with Pullen in his present condition.

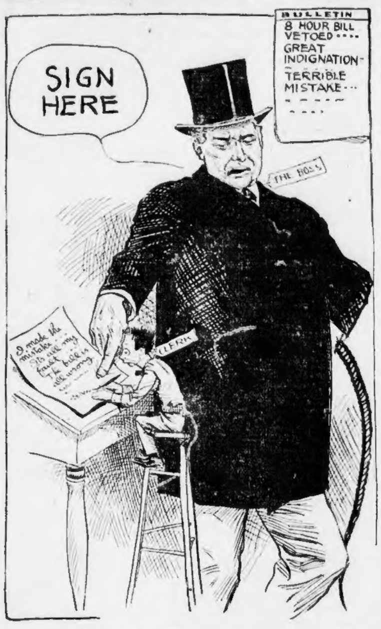
Chamberlin also had a bad shoulder that kept him out of the fray, and Surles played fullback. Surles is a good man, but Chamberlin is a battering ram when at critical moments a yard is required, and it must be a staunch line that withstands his attacks. Kries, the Army substitute quarterback, ran the team.

Stiff Wind Across Field

A strong breeze swept directly across the side lines, but with this exception the day could not be improved upon for the struggle. The Harvard team arrived early and lunched with the Cadets at the mess hall, and later witnessed the weekly inspection of their soon-to-be antagonists on the football field.

The game was called at 2:15 p. m., which was earlier than usual, but was requested by Harvard.

A CLERICAL ERROR



GRANT IN AN ALCO WINS BIG CUP RACE

MOTOR PARKWAY, New York, Oct. 30.—Harry Grant of Boston in an Alco car finished first in the annual Vanderbilt cup race this afternoon. Parker in a Fiat was second. The winner's time was 4h. 25m. 42s. Parker's time was 4h 30m. 58 3-5s.

Only two cars finished, and the committee declared the race at an end.

Accident followed accident in the great race to-day through the daredevil driving of America's greatest motorists. Death was narrowly averted on a number of occasions and ten of the original fifteen starting cars were disabled long before the day ended.

A spectator tried to kill Louis Strang and he was narrowly missed by a bounding stone which was thrown on the track and wrecked his car. The stone hit the track and flew up. The car, going at something like bullet speed, stopped it, but had the missile been a few inches higher Strang would have received it in the face.

After he had repaired his car Strang tried to get in the race again, but he was by that time several laps behind the others.

Hugh Harding's car was overturned when he was going at a terrific rate near Massapequa lodge. The steering gear went wrong and the pilot and his mechanic jumped barely in time to save themselves.

Chevrolet Out of Race.

The terrific pace tried the cars hard and several were stopped when different parts of the mechanism broke down. Chevrolet was put out by a broken condenser after he had made a course record in his fourth lap. Roy Harroun competing in the Wheatley hills sweepstakes lost a wheel when he was making magnificent time and he and his mechanic, Julius Heinman, were near to a bad accident.

Knipper avoided a bad spill near the spot where Harroun was halted when at seventy miles an hour he made a turn on one wheel. Mitchell came to grief in his Maxwell through a broken crank shaft. Other mechanical accidents laid out the rest.

Watson Wins Massapequa.

The Massapequa sweepstakes was finished comparatively early, Joe Matson, No. 43, in a Chalmers 30, was first. His time was 2:09:52 2-5. Doorley in a Maxwell was second in 2:28:28 4-5, and Lee, also in a Maxwell, was third in 2:30:24.

Harroun in a Marmon car won the Wheatly Hills sweepstakes.

One record was smashed early in the race to-day when Chevrolet in a Buick made the 12.64-mile circuit of the course in 9 minutes 56 2-5 seconds on his fourth lap. Never before had the route been covered in such time. Chevrolet's average for the turn was seventy-eight miles an hour.

Knipper in a Chalmers was not far behind, coming in fifty-two seconds later. Lorimer, in a Chalmers, and Harding, in the Apperson, respectively, were third and fourth.

Mitchell's Simplex was the first car retired, a crank shaft breaking on the third

A. E. WINSHIP RAPS BOSTON SCHOOL PLAN

That the school system of Boston is facing backward was the declaration this afternoon made by A. E. Winship of the State Board of Education and editor of the Journal of Education, before the Twentieth Century Club. Mr. Winship spoke on the subject: "Are Our Schools Behind the Needs of the Times?"

Paying a tribute to the work of the public primary, grammar and high schools all over the country and claiming that in these Institutions the best citizens of the country are made, Mr. Winship scored the system existing in Boston as German and not American.

FISH EXPORTER DEAD.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 30.—William D. Wixon, a leading fish exporter of this city, was found dead in his gasoline launch, which was partly filled with water, off a wharf at East Gloucester. Medical Examiner S. F. Quimby pronounced death due to an accident.

NEW BATTLE OF MUTINEERS AND GREEKS

ATHENS, Oct. 30.—A second battle took place to-day between the government forces and those of the naval mutineers, in which three stokers were killed on the rebel torpedo boat Aphendon and several were injured. The workmen and seamen at the dock yard on the island of Salamos surrendered to the government authorities.

The death list in the fighting was brought up to seven by to-day's fight, four being known to have been killed in yesterday's battle. Several leaders of the mutiny succeeded in landing to-day and eight all told were arrested. The leader, Lieutenant Typaldo, is still at liberty.

It is feared that the Military League will proclaim a dictatorship. The government forces are marshalled along the coast and the roads from Athens to the shore.

The whereabouts of the torpedo boats seized by the mutineers is unknown and the loyal vessels of the navy are patrolling the Grecian waters in search of them. It was reported to-day that Typaldo's forces were headed for Cretes and an attempt to direct a revolution from there is expected.

The arsenal on the Island of Salamis, where yesterday's battle between the opposing forces was fought, is again in the hands of the government.

LEARNS BROTHER HE SOUGHT WAS KILLED

FITCHBURG, Oct. 30.—A brother of A. J. Latimer, who was killed by a freight train in Maricopia, Arizona, a month ago and for whose relatives in the East the authorities have been making inquiries, was found to-day in Leominster. The brother is Robert Latimer and he is employed as foreman in Bartlett's top shop in that town. Mr. Latimer said to-day that he has been searching for his brother for over a year in order to make a settlement on a small piece of property which had been left them.

NEW HAVEN CLERKS VOTE FOR STRIKE

To enforce their demands for higher wages, better hours and conditions the Boston, Providence, Fall River and New Bedford lodges of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad have voted to strike. Other lodges of the system are yet to be heard from.

A strike of the freight clerks of the New Haven road from one end to the other of the system, for such is contemplated in the vote, would tie up the freight business of the road completely. Thousands of men will be affected.

For three weeks the general adjustment board for the Brotherhood of the New Haven system has been in conference with the general manager of the railroad at New Haven. They were unable to secure any satisfaction on the following demands and upon them the strike is being ordered.

Nine hours work a day with eight for yard clerks at Boston, Providence, Harlem River and New Haven; a general increase in wages; a minimum wage scale; passes for clerks and vacations.

The board of adjustment consisted of R. G. Stearns, chairman; W. H. Simms, vice-chairman; G. Raymond, secretary; Thomas F. Murray, F. E. Mohan, E. L. Sander and Charles J. Werner.

SENTENCED FOR "WRITING POLICY"

LYNN, Oct. 30.—John Hilfer, a G. A. R. veteran, who has appeared in the Lynn Police Court before to-day, for "writing policy," was given a sentence of six months to-day by Judge Lummus. Hilfer was arrested in a raid on No. 35 Spring street, October 25. William E. Hamilton, proprietor of the establishment at Spring street, was fined $50 for maintaining a gambling nuisance.

FUNERAL OF G. H. STEARNS.

The funeral of George H. Stearns, well known in banking circles, occurred this afternoon in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, with services in the chapel, Rev. Dr. Alexander Bourne officiating. The body was cremated. Delegations were present from the Charles River National Reliance Co-operative and Cambridge Savings Banks.

HEAVY GALE AT SEA.

Vessels arriving at this port to-day report a heavy northerly gale at sea. The wind is blowing fifty miles an hour off the end of Cape Cod. Captain Barrett of the Merchants liner Old Colony says there is a big fleet of sailing vessels, barges and tugs storm bound in Vineyard Haven.

YALE FIELD, New Haven, Oct. 30.—Yale and Amherst resumed football relations here this afternoon, after a lapse of five years, and the Bay State lads were out to show the Blue that they were worthy of a place on the latter's schedule every year.

Although Ted Coy, the player who is recognized the greatest star on the gridiron, was not in his customary place at full back, still he played at half back. It was the first time this year that the husky back was in the game at the kickoff, although on two other occasions he had jumped into the fray when the game was well under way.

Outside of Coy, Yale presented a pony backfield, Daly and Philbin being out because of slight bruises and Head Coach Jones not caring to take any chances of their hurting themselves so that they would be unavailable for the big games to follow. Francis was at right half back and Murphy, the baseball star, was at full back.

It looks as though Howe is sure to start at quarterback in the Tiger and Crimson games, as he was again placed in the position at the opening of to-day's contest.

BODY OF LOST GIRL IS FOUND IN THE OCEAN

MARBLEHEAD, Oct. 30.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Elizabeth Porter, who disappeared two days ago, was cleared, in a measure, at least, to-day when her body was found in the ocean off Goodwin Head.

The young woman, who was the daughter of H. F. Porter of Littleton, N. H., had been here for two months under treatment of a physician for nervous trouble. She made her home at the Hotel Leslie in Front street.

Wednesday night she retired to her room in the hotel about 11 o'clock. That was the last seen of her. Miss Maude Candler, proprietor of the hotel, bade her good night at that time. When Miss Porter did not appear for her breakfast the next morning Miss Chandler sent for her, but the room was unoccupied. The police were notified at once. Later Miss Porter's coat and watch were found on the bluffs at Goodwin's Head.

End of the campaign. Who will be elected, Vahey or Draper, Pelletier or Hill? The Sunday American will sum up both sides, Republican and Democratic, and give estimates of the majorities of the winners. Every voter will want the Sunday American to know who is going to be elected.

round after the pilot had made a splendid beginning. In spite of Chevrolet's record, Wishert, the amateur Mercedes driver, came in first in the fourth lap, finishing it in 43 minutes and 27 seconds after the races started.

Accidents in Plenty.

Accidents were numerous. Joe Seymour was put out soon after Mitchell was forced to retire. Seymour was number 17, driving an Isotta.

Hearne, No. 4, driving a Fiat, was put out of the race in the fourth round by a broken crank case. Twelve Vanderbilt racers were then left.

Aitken was retired at Meadowbrook when his car, No. 10, a National, lost a wheel. Hugh Harding swelled the list of retirements quickly. His Apperson, No. 6, turned over at Massapequa lodge. Neither he nor his mechanician, F. W. Clifton, was badly injured.

Strang Out of It, Too.

Harry Stillman, in a Marmon, had to retire because the cooling apparatus got out of order. Strang, in a Fiat, pulled up at the stand at 10:45. A rock had struck and broken his radiator. He was bitterly disappointed.

Twenty-five of the swiftest racing automobiles guided by the pick of the nation's daredevil chauffeurs were sent away at 9 o'clock in the three big contests over Nassau County roads—the fifth Vanderbilt cup race, the Massapequa sweepstakes and the Wheatley Hills sweepstakes.

While an intensely enthusiastic crowd cheered madly the first car, in the Massapequa, shot from the line. Four to the minute the others were off in an unbroken line.

Long before the last entrant had waited for the elapse of the fifteen second interval that separated him from his immediate predecessor the leaders were miles away dashing through solid lines of spectators kept off the road by 600 Pinkertons and police.

Starter Fred Wagner announced that Willie Haupt would not participate because his American car was incapacitated. Three days ago the shaft of Haupt's motor car was broken while he was making terrific time in a trial trip. Haupt was generally regarded favorably and there was much disappointment when it was said he could not take part.

"Buster" Brown in a Chalmers-Detroit was off at 9 o'clock sharp and the race was on, with the usual accompaniment of artillery-like noise and smoke.

Cheers for Lewis Strang.

A big ovation was given Lewis Strang as he came to the line as the starter in the big race. The stand was well filled, and everybody stood up and yelled. Chevrolet also got a big cheer.

It was eight minutes and forty-five seconds past 9 when Joe Seymour in his Isotta, the last car of the twenty-five, shot away from the starting point.

Matson in a Chalmers-Detroit was the first to lap the course. His time for the lap was 12½ minutes.

From midnight until early dawn the course was ringed with light from the bonfires of the early birds, who did not intend to be cheated out of a front seat at to-day's great spectacle.

An army on wheels camped at the roadside, and those who had no touring cars shivered in their overcoats and blankets, and envied those who brought limousines down from the city.

It was thought that by starting the race three hours later than in former years, the all-night part of the program would be eliminated, but the regulars kept arriving from dusk on, taking up the choice positions around he course.

Every hotel within miles was sheltering three times its capacity. Men who value a night's rest were occupying cots or quarreling over the privilege of sleeping on pool tables, and the lobbies and dining rooms were full of the unfortunates who forgot to reserve their rooms a month ahead.

For a time yesterday it looked as if the motor classic might be called off on account of the non-appearance of the $100,000 bond which the cup Holding Company had to put up to indemnify Nassau County against damage to its roads and possible lawsuits over injuries.

Close Call for Race.

Later, however, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the cup donor, and several representatives of Lloyds, the London assurance agency which backed the bond, raced up to the Mineola courthouse and filed the necessary document. It proved satisfactory and all worriment was over.

Mr. Vanderbilt explained that the bond did not arrive until the morning, when it reached New York on one of the liners. He and the others then raced out to Mineola at cup speed.

The county officials said they were only going to wait until a few minutes longer, and if the bond had not put in its appearance they were going to call the race off.

Heretofore the Vanderbilt cup race was competed for by cars of unlimited power, but this year's contest is for stock chassis only. In accordance with the new regulations, the cars are of sub-classes, one and two, under the classification of the A. A. A. racing rules.

EXPERT OPENS FRAMINGHAM TOWN SAFE

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 30.—Deputy Sheriff William H. Walsh is serving summonses on witnesses who are to appear before the Middlesex Grand Jury Monday in connection with the Framingham town note forgeries confessed by the deposed town treasurer, John B. Lombard.

These witnesses include the Selectmen whose names are said to have been forged by Lombard, and town officials and others to the number of about a score.

An expert safe man has opened the town vault in the high school building, where important documents and papers are kept.

He was given the combination by Town Clerk Hemenway, but was unable to open the doors with it. The vault was opened by some other means and an examination of the tumblers showed that Town Clerk Hemenway had forgotten one of the numbers of the combination.

It is not known what was found in the vault, but Mr. Hemenway said that none of Lombard's books or papers were there.

Expert accountants are at work day and night on Lombard's books in an effort to have them ready when the case comes up next week.

Lombard's condition continues about the same as it has been for the last week or ten days. He is anxious about his appearance in court next week.

OVATION FOR PRESIDENT AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 30.—The tardy arrival here to-day of President Taft with his retinue of thirty-two State Governors, twenty Senators, 177 Congressmen, two Cabinet officers and a number of representatives of foreign governments, amid the booming of guns, marked the end of the first waterways junket ever participated in by a President of this nation.

The President, with Governor Sanders of Louisiana and Governor Noel of Mississippi, arrived at the foot of Canal street from Baton Rouge two hours late. Originally scheduled to get here at 8 in the morning the delays that began far up the river set the President back more than two hours, while the other boats of the fleet strung in here at intervals after noon.

Cheered by 10,000.

The President was met by an escort of 5,000 citizens and a military and naval parade when his ship warped up at the head of Canal street. A crowd of more than 10,000 persons were thronged about the piers, and when the President walked down the gang-plank from his ship he was hailed by a chorus of cheers that was taken up and re-echoed for five miles along Canal street and through the downtown district.

The President immediatly became the centre of interest in a parade of 5,000 men that proceeded through bowers of palm trees and sugarcane erected on streets leading through the centre of the business district.

Reviews Big Parade.

Mr. Taft broke away early in the parade and went to his headquarters at the St Charles Hotel where from a balcony he reviewed the procession. After the 5,000 gaily uniformed citizens and soldiers and sailors from four battleships had passed the hotel Mr. Taft devoted an hour to New Orleans friends and then had luncheon with Archbishop Blenk, whom he knew in the Philippines.

Meanwhile the 3,000 delegates to the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Association, where he was to speak, had begun their convention in the big Athenaeum.

Following the preliminaries in which Governor Sanders and Mayor Behrman had the principal parts, President Kavanaugh of the association delivered his address in which he asserted that the time has come when the public demand for the improvement of the Mississippi River will brook no further delay and that Mississippi Valley States will not return to Congress an aspiring statesman who is opposed to the waterways improvement propaganda.

SLAYER BURIED WITH VICTIM

The bodies of Irving Fletcher and his young wife, both of whom met death on Wednesday afternoon in the hallway of "The Fens," an apartment house in Batavia street, the man shooting the woman and then killing himself, were buried to-day in the Fletcher family plot at Belmont, Me.

The bodies were taken from this city to Belfast and from there to the cemetery. There was no funeral service. Irma, the three-year-old daughter of the couple, is in the care of her mother's folks in Forest Hills and will be reared either by them or the parents of the little one's father.

PRIEST SAVES 89 FROM FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Twenty-four priests and sixty-five pupils were saved early to-day by the heroism of the Very Rev. J. W. Moore, president of St. John's College, Brooklyn, when the institution was damaged by fire. Father Moore made his way through smoke-filled halls giving the alarm. Many of the occupants of the building had narrow escapes. Several athletic trophies were lost, the total damage being $15,000.

ARMY FLYERS ESCAPE FALL

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 30.—The Wright bi-plane almost came to grief here to-day when the engine stopped in midair. Lieutenant F. E. Humphreys, who was handling the control levers, kept his head and after a second or two of juggling, thirty feet above the ground, he brought the machine to earth undamaged. Neither he nor Lieutenant F. D. Foulois, his passenger, was injured.

A tooth of one of the cog wheels of the magneto broke, causing the accident. The fact that the machine was up only thirty feet and the fact that both officers kept cool averted a smash. The flight had lasted just ten minutes when the tooth broke.

Wilbur Wright, who was present, said that the looseness of the magneto caused the trouble. "We can go up without the broken tooth," he said.

RECEIPTS OF MAINE WOODS GAME SMALL

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 30.—Receipts of game at Bangor, up to midnight are 612 deer, 34 moose and 11 bears, from which it may be concluded that the receipts for the month of October will fall below 700 deer, with the moose figures probably about 60, compared with 1,098 deer and 44 moose in October of 1908.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Sparkling New Play Decidedly Parisian.

PARIS—"Le Circuit," a comedy in three acts, by M. Feydeau and M. de Croisset, just produced at the Varieties Theatre, is essentially Parisian, with sparkling dialogue and but little plot. M. Lebrisac, an automobile builder, finds his wife in the arms of his famous driver Etienne, who is dismissed, but the driver wins the Bretagne circuit race in one of his automobiles. The driver is forgiven and a satisfactory end is worked out. The Petit Journal says: "The details are of violently crude personages who change companions as they would change their pneumatic tires."

Poet Phillips Bankrupt.

LONDON—Stephen Phillips, the poet and playwright, whose "Paolo and Francesca," written for George Alexander, gained him enduring fame, and whose "Herod" has just been produced in New York by William Faversham, went through public examination in the Bankruptcy Court. The poet's debts, it appeared, amounted to £614 ($3,070); his assets nil. His income consisted of 5 per cent royalties on plays written for various theatrical managers. Mr. Phillips has been borrowing from friends and money lenders. He has always displayed absolute ignorance of the value of money and utter carelessness in spending it. His habit of borrowing has alienated even his strongest friends. He at one time lived in the neighborhood of Rudyard Kipling, who for a long period assisted him, but eventually forbade him the house, so erratic were the poet's methods.

Ferrer Disowned Daughters.

PARIS—A dispatch from Barcelona to the Matin says the will of Professor Ferrer, who was executed a few days ago, disinherits his daughters in favor of Portet, his associate, who now resides in Liverpool, and Soledad Villafranca, who has been variously referred to as his second wife and his "friend." Ferrer specially disowned his daughters in his will.

COTTON UP TO RECORD PRICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A new high price record for a cotton option was made to-day when W. P. Brown of New Orleans, leader of the Southern bull party here, personally bid in May cotton at 15.01 on the floor of the exchange.

The market was wildly excited again with the bulls still in firm control. Besides the new May record all the other options were up from 11 to 17 points at new high marks for the year.

The Patten contingent remains in command of the situation. The Chicago plunger stood firmly on his enormous commitments, according to the best information, and appeared determined to back up his assertions of still higher prices with his own market stand.

EMPTY YACHT PICKED UP IN SEA MYSTERY

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 30.—A fine thirty-foot yacht, abandoned at sea, was towed into this port to-day by the fishing schooner Ingomar. Seafaring men think there is a mystery, if not an ocean tragedy, involved. The yacht is yawl rigged and named Alda II.

Her mainmast had snapped off about one-third of the distance below the head and her mainsail and jib were partly set.

Everything aboard the craft indicated that it had not been long since the derelict had a skipper and a crew aboard. The boat is a costly one. She is luxuriously appointed and everything indicates that she had been prepared for a cruise. There were clothing and stores aboard.

Captain Horace Wildes of the Ingomar sighted the dismantled yacht tossing about in a wild sea about twelve miles northeast of Gurnet Light yesterday.

She was at the mercy of wind and wave, and the broken spar and sail were hanging over her side. When fishermen from the Ingomar boarded her there was not a soul aboard, and nothing to indicate why the beautiful yacht had been abandoned.

Owing to the big sea which was sweeping through Boston Bay it was difficult to get her in tow. The Ingomar crew were three hours at the task and had to chop away the yawl's bowsprit. The boat of mystery flew a red, white and blue pennant with a crescent.

SOCIETY CLUB BEAUTY WEDS HARVARD MAN

Society interest is centered to-day on the wedding of Miss Dorothy Dexter and David M. Osborne, which takes place to-day at the country home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth Grew in Dover.

Miss Dexter is the accomplished and popular daughter of the Charles W. Dexters of Newbury street. She is a member of the Vincent Club and has, ever since joining that exclusive organization, been recognized as one of its best fancy dancers.

At the show last Spring she made a decided hit when she played so cleverly the part of the French spy. The Grew home is a most ideal setting for a large country wedding and the affair promises much brilliancy.

Mr. Osborne is a Harvard, '09, man and is a brother of Mrs. James J. Storrow. His father was formerly Mayor of Auburn and is now Public Service Commissioner in New York.

Miss Dexter's engagement was made public on Harvard class day last June and on that happy occasion she was surrounded by her intimates and deluged with congratulations.

Mrs. Grew has been a veritable fairy godmother to her younger sister, having given her her coming out tea at the Tuileries some few Winters ago any any number of hospitalities in her honor since, so it would only be expected that she open her beautiful country home for her wedding and the large breakfast which follows.

Mrs. Grew is a sister-in-law of Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., and prominently identified with the Norfolk Hunt set.

Miss Dexter, who is petite, slender and unusually graceful, with pretty brown hair and an exquisite complexion, will make the daintiest of brides. Her gown, which is of white satin and family lace, is said to be superb.

GREAT PARTY FOR GOMPERS' FATHER

Solomon Gompers of Heath street, Roxbury, is in New York to-day to receive the homage of his seven children, forty grandchildren, fifteen great grandchildren and two hundred or more relatives on the anniversary of his eighty-second birthday. The affair is to be held to-night on East Eighty-sixth street, in the Yorkville Casino.

New Method of Treating Dandruff

There has been a mistaken idea for years that frequent washing is bad for the hair. The result is that nearly everybody has more or less hair trouble. Practically everybody has dandruff, and hundreds of others have hair that is too oily, or too dry, or hair that is faded and lifeless. The result of all these troubles is falling hair, and after that comes baldness. There are hundreds of humbugs sold under various names that are said to make beautiful hair, and that are said to cure dandruff, but they are worse than useless. Common soaps and common shampoos leave the hair in a worse condition than it was before. There is one preparation for the hair that is so good that the ingredients of which it is made are printed on the package. This is the new scientific preparation called Birt's Head Wash, which is made of Refined Soap, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and Salicylic Acid. Any doctor will tell you it is a good formula. It removes the dirt, dandruff and microbes from the hair and leaves the scalp soft and moist and the hair fine and glossy. Price, 50 cents a jar.

WRITES NEW DECALOGUE FOR COLLEGE MEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., delivered the principal address at the University Convocation of the State, taking as his subject "Moral Instruction in High Schools and Colleges." In his conclusion he said:

"As indicative of the spirit which should animate our work and the temper which should pervade an institution of learning, I have ventured to compass the learner's ideal in a series of propositions, which I have dared—I trust not irreverently—to call 'the student's ten commandments.'

"1. Thou shalt set the service of God and man before thine heart as the end of all thy work.

"2. Thou shalt inquire of each study what it has for thee as a worker for a better world, not relinquishing thy pursuit of it until thou hast gained its profit unto this end.

"3. Thou shalt love the truth and only the truth, and welcome all truth gladly, whether it bring thee or the world joy or suffering, pleasure or hardship, ease or toil.

"4. Thou shalt meet each task at the moment assigned for it with a willing heart.

"5. Thou shalt work each day to the limit of thy strength, consistently with the yet harder work which shall be thy duty on the morrow.

"6. Thou shalt respect the rights and pleasures of others, claiming no privilege for thyself but the privilege of service, and allowing thyself no joy which does not increase the joy of thy fellow men.

"7. Thou shalt love thy friends more than thyself, thy college more than thy friends, thy country more than thy college, and God more than all else.

"8. Thou shalt rejoice in the excellence of others and despise all rewards saving the gratitude of thy fellows and the approval of God.

"9. Thou shalt live by thy best, holding thyself relentlessly to those ideals thou dost most admire in other men.

"10. Thou shalt make for thyself commandments harder than another can make for thee, and each new day commandments more rigorous than thine own laws of the day before."

HOMELESS FIRE VICTIMS TAKEN IN BY CHURCH

Seventy-two homeless people—men, women and children—the members of sixteen families who were driven from their homes by fire that threatened to wipe out the Andrew square section of South Boston, spent the night among friends or in the basement of St. Mary's Polish Catholic Church on Dorchester avenue.

The burned houses were located at Nos. 1 to 7 Ellery terrace, in one great block. The fire is said to have started in the metal smelting establishment of O'Connor Brothers, at No. 49 Ellery street, spread to the one-story wooden stable of John O'Brien at No. 51 Ellery street and leaped across to the block of tenements in Ellery terrace.

The house at No. 7 was the first to catch fire, and as the fierce flames swept through the big block the terrified inmates fled to the street in a panic. Mothers with their babies in their arms staggered and stumbled down over burning stairways through the dense smoke and fell into the arms of police and firemen, but no one was hurt in the mad dash for safety.

The inmates were able to save but little of their belongings, so suddenly did the flames sweep down upon them.

Many of the women and children were assisted out of the burning building by the Rev. Father John Chmielinski, pastor of St. Mary's Polish Catholic Church, and Henry Hoppe. Many of the homeless were taken in by friends living in the neighborhood, while the rest adjourned to the basement of the church, where they spent the night.

The stable of John O'Brien was destroyed and one horse was burned to death. The smelting concern suffered a heavy damage and the tenement block was completely gutted and all the furnishings destroyed. The total damage is estimated at about $22,000. It is not known what caused the fire.

73-YEAR-OLD MAN SUES WIFE OF 21

NEW HAVEN, Oct., Oct. 30.—Suit was brought in the Superior Court in this city by Burr S. Peck, aged seventy-three years, against his twenty-one-year-old wife for divorce. They were married July 9, 1908, in New York, a few days after the bride's twentieth birthday. The plaintiff is a retired carpenter worth $100,000, and the couple since the marriage have resided with Mr. Peck's mother, who is ninety years old and who is worth a lot of money. Intolerable cruelty is alleged by the plaintiff, dating almost from the day of the marriage.

WIFE SLAYER MILLER FOUND DEAD IN HOUSE NEAR SCENE OF CRIME

the night of the murder," said Wilson. "I cleaned up the cellar today and when I went to the coal bin I saw the body. It was lying on its left side and the hat was crushed under the head. I called to a Mr. Thompson, who was passing the house, and he notified the medical examiner."

New Witness Talks.

Johnson's story, told for the first time to-day, completed the explanation of the double tragedy. He is a New Haven Railroad lineman.

"I was standing on the New York, New Haven & Hartford station platform when Miller shot his wife," said Johnson. "Miller turned and walked toward French avenue. He hadn't gone but a few yards when I saw him raise his revolver and fire it into his own mouth. Then he started on a dog trot and I think he turned in about where the French estate is."

Dr. C. A. Sullivan, who was called when the body was found, corroborated Johnson's statement.

"It is my belief," he said, "that the man killed himself after he crawled into the coal bin. The shot in the mouth was his first attempt. He would probably have died of this, but death came slowly, so he hastened matters and fired a second bullet into his brain. Every indication is that the man died Thursday night, soon after he shot his wife."

The two daughters of the late Judge French, who had been in the house most of the time since the Miller tragedy, were horrified by to-day's discovery. They had not heard any shots and could not explain how Miller could have gotten into the cellar. It is believed that he made for the first building from the scene of the tragedy and crawled through a cellar window, falling into the coal bin.

Hiding Place Not Suspected.

In the search which followed his crime nobody ever thought of looking in the French mansion, because it was known to be occupied, and it was inconceivable to the police that he would attempt to hide in such a place.

Miller, who had been living apart from his wife, met her by appointment in South Braintree square late Thursday afternoon. He had frequently urged her to return and live with him and he renewed his appeal in the public square.

The wife, who had with her their little son, Delma, five years old, refused to renew their married life. Miller, catching her by the right arm, then shot her in the right temple and she fell dead.

A second shot was fired and it was supposed by many witnesses of the shooting that Miller aimed it at their child, who fled down a nearby street. It appears now, however, that this must have been the shot that Miller fired into his own mouth.

The little boy was picked up by a young woman and taken to his grandmother, Mrs. Josephus Sampson, who is prostrated by the child's appeals for its mother. Another little one, two years old, does not know of the tragedy.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. BLOODY FIGHT FEARED OVER BALLOT WAR

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 30.—Once again feudalism has broken out in Breathitt county, and once again it is over politics.

Supported by fifty armed men, headed by Joseph Sebastian, noted feudist, County Clerk H. Hurst, at Jackson, stormed Jackson Deposit bank, forced delivery of ballots for Crockettsville precinct to be used at Tuesday's election, gave them into custody of Sebastian and his men and they rode away to the hills.

Hurst, Sebastian and their crowd are all Republicans, and ballots had been placed in bank for safe keeping, as previous attempt had been made to secure them.

Sheriff Crawford, Democrat, summoned a posse and followed Sebastian and his henchmen to the home of Daniel Turner, feudal connection, where they entrenched themselves. Crawford demanded the surrender of the ballots, and Sebastian and his men defied the officers to capture them.

Crawford withdrew his men, being fearful of bloodshed, and Sebastian and his men rode into the mountains with the ballots. Luther Callahan, brother of Ed. Callahan, notorious henchman of Judge James Hargis, is the Democratic clerk for Crockettsville, and he and his men came to Jackson to secure the ballots, but Sebastian forestalled them.

The Callahan and Sebastian families have long been in feudalism. This will revive it. County Clerk Hurst was arrested and held in $2,000 bail.

ASTOR GIRL WITH FORMER MRS. SHAW

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Mrs. John Jacob Astor's friends here express no surprise that she has brought suit for divorce. Indeed, they profess to know that before going to America Mrs. Astor hinted that when she returned to England it would be as "a free woman" and to remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Astor's apartments at the Hotel Ritz have been reserved for her for the beginning of December. Her friends say, too, that her unusually valuable jewels are in the strong room of the Hotel Ritz, as she said she did not anticipate wearing them during her present visit to America.

Mrs. Astor's daughter Alice remains with Mrs. Waldorf Astor's children at a cottage in the delightful atmosphere of North Berwick. It is said here that her son Vincent is with his father on board the yacht Nourmahal in West Indian waters.

Mrs. Waldorf Astor, Mrs. John Jacob Astor's intimate friend, has three children. One is by her first marriage with Robert Gould Shaw 2d of Boston. Him she divorced and married Waldorf Astor in May, 1906. Two children have been born to them—a son, two years old, and a baby girl. Mrs. Waldorf Astor was Nannie Langhorne, one of the five "lovely Langhorne sisters" of Virginia.

LATEST PICTURE OF "DR." HILL, IN SUIT CASE DEATH

ALIBI WILL BE CLAIM OF 'DOCTOR' HILL

FALL RIVER, Oct. 30.—With Frank L. Hill, the herb doctor, committed without bail to the New Bedford House of Correction, the Fall River police are folowing out every detail for evidence when the case against Hill for the murder of Amelia St. Jean shall be marked for trial.

Marshal John Fleet of the Fall River police said to-day: "We are working on general details in the St. Jean case. The girl's head has not yet been found. While we would like to recover it, the head is not absolutely necessary for a conviction. But it would be of assistance in deciding whether violence was used beyond the evidences yielded by the autopsy.

It is said that Higgins & Hanify, counsel for Hill, will attempt to establish an alibi for Hill and to prove that the portion of Hill's shirt found in his furnace, matching that found with the clothing of the dead girl, was not in the furnace oven when the first investigation of the premises was made.

It is not expected in Fall River that the charge of murder will be actually pressed against Hill, but rather that the government will use murder as a blanket charge to include the lesser crime of death by illegal operation as in the Susan Geary case.

BOY SAYS HE WAS STOLEN FROM SALEM

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 30.—The local authorities are holding a fourteen-year-old Polish boy who was picked up on the street here and who said his name was Joseph Salkowitz of No. 416 Essex street, Salem, Mass., and that a week ago two men in an automobile picked him up near his home and carried him to Lynn, where he was turned over to a man and a woman, put on a train and brought here. He said he escaped after four days.

The Salem authorities were notified, but they have been unable to find out anything about him here. Inquiry at No. 416 Essex street showed that he never lived there.

FORTUNE FOR DAUGHTER OF '400' LEADER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Miss Louise McAllister, daughter of the late Ward McAllister, social arbiter of the "Four Hundred" twenty years ago, has fallen heir to a fortune of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. The estate was left by her second cousin, Henry G. Gibbons of Philadelphia and Chicago, with the explanation that she would be able to dispose of it much more wisely than he.

"Already a large part of the fortune will stipulating how she shall use the money, a close friend said today that Miss McAllister would undoubtedly devote every cent to charity.

"Already a large part of the fortune left by her grandfather, Matthew Hall McAllister, has been used in unostentatious charity," declared this friend. "There are scores of women in this city and in cities of the South with whom Miss Allister has family affiliations, who have been put on their feet through her quiet and often unknown assistance.

Bothered by Relatives.

"Miss McAllister has been pestered by relatives who have heard of the will, and insist that it is only right for her to divide with them," said Miss Wheeler, her secretary. "But Miss McAllister is not the sort of woman who will use her fortune selfishly. Mr. Gibbons, who knew of the vast amount of philanthropy undertaken by her, considered her the best person to dispose of his millions.

"When Matthew Hall McAllister died, some years ago, he left a large fortune to Miss McAllister, passing over his son. Miss McAllister has always been looked upon by the family as its head. She owns the family residence at No. 602 Madison avenue and much downtown property.

What a Juror Said

Newspapers yesterday told how Arthur M. Huddell, one of the most prominent labor men in the state, said:

"Although I am going to vote for a Democratic Governor—I am going to vote for you, Mr. Hill, for District Attorney, because I served on the jury recently and became convinced that you handled all the cases in the most competent and fearless manner—but at the same time showed perfect fairness to the accused."

It is on the record I have made, handling over 4000 cases, as district attorney, in the last 6 months, that I want to be judged.

I would like very much to have you elect me district attorney next Tuesday, but—don't do it if you think I have not earned the right.

BOSTON IS POLITICAL STORM CENTRE TO=DAY

LODGE DEFENDS BOSS RULE TONIGHT; VAHEY AND FOSS TOUR CITY

To-night is the night—from the Republican viewpoint.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, proprietor of the Republican State machine, is to mount the stage at Tremont Temple and defend himself and his candidates on the State ticket. The Republican State Committee officers announce, confidentially, that the Lodge speech to-night is going to be one of the loveliest bits of polite assault and battery that any campaign orator has even given vent to.

Eugene N. Foss, a former Republican, now running for Lieutenant-Governor on the Democratic ticket, will be the especial target for Lodge. Candidate Foss has told some truths about Senator Lodge in this campaign that haven't pleased the sage of Nahant.

Bates to Preside.

Former Governor John L. Bates will preside tonight. Governor Draper and Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham will declare their willingness to be voted for next Tuesday. Arthur Dehon Hill will explain how the courts can be kept out of politics by electing a Republican District Attorney.

While Senator Lodge and the other friends of the plain people around election time are holding forth in Tremont Temple, their Democratic opponents will tell the voters in the Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury sections just why they should tie knots in the G. O. P. elephant's tail and trunk next Tuesday.

President James Donovan is directing the most exciting carnival of political pyrotechnics that Boston has ever known.

Democratic Tour To-night.

Here is the program he has mapped out for the Vahey-Foss team to-night: Ward 21, wardroom, Dudley Street Opera House, Ward 22, Friendship Hall, Columbus avenue and Centre street; Ward 23, wardroom, Minton Hall, Forest Hills square; Quincy House, pow wow of leaders from all over the State. While Vahey, Foss and the other stars of the big Democratic constellation are stumping Boston, others will speak in Milford, Randolph and Brockton.

Monday night there will be more of it. The Democrats will continue their whirlwind tour of Boston and hold a few rallies in other sections. The Republicans will make their big splurge in Somerville. Other eleventh-hour rallies will be held by local committees.

Last night's rallies were among the most exciting of the campaign.

Vahey and Foss, the Democratic candidates, were denied the privilege of speaking on the property of the New England Gas & Coke Company at South Everett, and the Democratic rally which was scheduled to take place there had to be called off.

Eggs Hurled at Lundy.

Joseph B. Lundy, Attorney William R. Scharton and James H. Holland were greeted with a shower of aged and decrepit eggs when they appeared in a taxicab in front of the Jefferson Club in Ward 6, North End, to scatter a little oratory in favor of District Attorney Arthur D. Hill. They were advised to move to a place where smiles were broader and greetings were more cordial ere they were crowned with a chimney from the roof tops. But they stayed and had their say when the supply of eggs ran out.

Vahey, Foss, and Pelletier burned up Boston's political course in their whirlwind automobile tour of the different wards. They spoke in Neponset, Cambridge, Roxbury, South Boston and the North and West Ends.

Pelletier challenged District Attorney Hill to repeat to a committee of the Bar Association, a committee of newspaper men or a committee of clergymen a story he is alleged to have told at a recent rally at Ward 15.

At Springfield Governor Draper told how the meaning of the eight-hour bill was materially changed by the clerk of the Rules Committee of the House, who thought he was merely making a verbal change "to remove ambiguity." The bill was made to read public "work," where it originally read public "works."

Political News of Both Parties.

Ward 14, South Boston, is the one ward in the city where the voters have heard little or no oratory from the political campaigners. Superintendent of Public Buildings Morrison cancelled the lease of the hall formerly used for a wardroom, and as there are no available halls for the spellbinders the citizens have been obliged to go outside their home ward for their rallies.

That Martin Lomasney's domain, Ward 8, will show a good majority for Plan 1 seems assured. Some of the precinct leaders of the Hendricks Club were openly moving among the crowd advocating the so called "bosses plan" at the big rally for the State ticket last night.

"Don't worry about what will happen to Little Arthur Hill after next week. He's been a good and dutiful son to Papa Lodge, and the big boss will see that he is properly taken care of after his defeat. I wish all you men had a political papa that would be as good to you as Henry Cabot Lodge has been to our friend Arthur," said Candidate Pelletier in closing his Ward 8 rally. The reference to the senior Senator from Massachusetts brought forth prolonged applause.

Leader Innes of Ward 10 summoned all the faithful to the Republican headquarters on Columbus avenue last night and impressed upon them the necessity of getting out every vote to roll up a big majority against James H. Vahey, who, by the way, is a law partner and intimate friend of the same Innes. Charlie also instructed his lieutenants to make herculean efforts to line up the colored voters for Hill, since the Republican leaders are worried over the poor reception that the district attorney received at the rally for colored voters held earlier in the week.

General Charles W. Bartlett, who has been one of the most aggressive attorneys opposing District Attorney Hill in the steel cases, was on the stump last night for the State ticket and Joseph C. Pelletier, the Democratic nominee for district attorney. He made no reference in his speeches, however, to the happenings in the courtroom during the trial of the so called steel cases.

There has been considerable betting on the result of the district attorney fight at City Hall, and all the wagers laid within the last two days have been at even money. Supporters of Pelletier say that the prevailing odds indicate the strength that the Democratic candidate has gained in the past week.

Several times last night the schedules of Candidates Vahey and Foss and that of Pelletier, the district attorney candidate, brought them at the same hall together. At Ward 13 Pelletier led three cheers for Vahey, at Ward 6 Leader Foss led in the cheering for Pelletier, and at Ward 8 Pelletier led three cheers for Foss. At all the rallies there was genuine enthusiasm.

Those interested in the success of Plan Two are satisfied that the departure from their camp of a number of the Democratic ward leaders will react in favor of Plan Two. They refuse to listen to any argument tending to show that the cause has been weakened by the desertions, but on the contrary assert that the success of the fight is now assured.

If ex-Alderman Fred Finigan wins all the hats that he has bet on the results next Tuesday he will have enough to stock a small sized hat store. While his brother is in the hat business, he doesn't insist that the loosers purchase the headgear there.

There is a merry fight on in Ward 20 on the merits of the two charter plans. The Red Devils have declared for Plan One, and working shoulder to shoulder with their Democratic neighbors are Councilman Harding and a large number of Republicans. The Republican ward committee is for Plan Two, as are also a large number of the "Tip Carts."

"Take it from me, if Plan One wins on next Tuesday, Mayor Hibbard will be one of the strongest candidates for the nomination of the Republican mayoralty convention," said a prominent Republican in discussing the charter fight. While this friend of the Mayor believes that Plan One is the best for Hibbard, the Mayor himself is issuing a statement advocating the adoption of Plan Two.

NO TAKERS FOR PELLETIER BET

An offer to bet $500 even that Pelletier would beat Hill in the contest for the district attorneyship received no takers to-day. The offer was made by Fred A. Cronin, floor man for the brokerage firm of C. A. Phelan & Company, No. 60 Congress street. He went to the curb to-day and made the offer. He waited from 11:50 to 12 o'clock. He was able to get $175 in small bets, but no one would take the $500 even proposition.

Yesterday Mr. Cronin went to the curb representing a pool of $400 which he wanted to bet on Pelletier to win at odds of 4 to 5. He could get no takers. So to-day he offered even money with practically the same result. Monday Mr. Cronin is again going to the curb and will again make the offer to bet $500 even that Pelletier will win.

YONKERS, N. Y., Oct. 30.—That he could seldom induce his wife to go out at night is the uncommon complaint made by Albert L. The town has felt the need of such a service for a long time and the announcement that the contract has been closed at a much lower rate than is enjoyed by most towns has brought an expression of satisfaction from the citizens.

DRAPER NOW EXPLAINS LABOR VETO BY CHANGE OF WORD IN THE BILL

Organized labor protested to-day against what is termed a trick by which a committee clerk in the lower house of the Legislature changed the wording of the eight-hour bill and through which Governor Draper, on the eve of election, has given a new reason why he vetoed the measure.

In the interest of Governor Draper there was to-day made public a letter from D. C. Merwin, clerk of the House Committee on Rules, in which Merwin says that while the bill was in third reading, he changed the words "public works" to "public work." He says, naively, in this letter, that he "intended to remove an ambiguity," and had thought the "alterations immaterial."

Governor Draper holds the alterations to be very material, since he says the bill, as it read when it came to him, would have deprived Massachusetts labor of the right of working more than eight hours a day for extra pay on supplies furnished the State, whereas workingmen in other States engaged in the manufacture of supplies to be used by contractors on public owrk in this State could work more than eight hours a day, and such of these supplies might therefore be made elsewhere.

Letter Written October 8.

It is interesting, labor men say, that Merwin's admission was contained in a letter written October 8, and was made public to-day, four days before election. Governor Draper says that he called the attention of some workingmen to this change.

Arthur M. Huddell, general business agent fro the Building Trades Department of the C. L. U., said to-day:

"In a desperate attempt at the eleventh hour to get out from his veto of the eight-hour law, Governor Draper has discovered that the clerk of the house changed the word 'works' to 'work,' and is trying to justify his veto by construing it to mean that it would affect all work in factories and all other manufacturing establishments. He forgets to tell the people, however, that section 2 of that bill excludes contracts for the purchase of materials and supplies.

Puts It Up to Draper.

"Did his excellency tell of this in his veto? No; he knew nothing of it at that time or he would have enlarged upon it to justify his position.

"Governor Draper, answer this question! The men employed on public work demand a reply:

"Would you have signed the eight-hour bill if it read 'works' instead of 'work'?"

Michael A. Murphy, president of the Boston Central Labor Union and a member of the Central Labor Legislative Committee, who aided in drawing up the bill, said:

"If the difference between 'work' and 'works' constituted the principal reason for Governor Draper's veto of our 8-hour bill, as he and his committee now intimate, why was that fact not mentioned in his veto message to the Legislature?"

"Again, who authorized this change? Does it not show on the face of it that there was trickery, closely allied to actual fraud, used to defeat the bill and that the Governor himself is not absolutely honest in this present attitude?

"If he wishes to be above suspicion in this matter let him tell the voters frankly whether or not he will sign a duplicate of that bill with the word 'works' substituted for 'work' in bill which he vetoed.

Representative William H. O'Brien, vice-president of the Boston Central Labor Union, of Ward 16, said:

"As one who was active in working for the eight-hour bill on the floor of the House, it would seem that it must be apparent to those conversant with the political methods of the Republican machine that this is an eleventh hour flash, a desperate attempt to stem the rising tide which threatens to become a Niagara of ballots on Tuesday next and engulf the opponents of just labor legislation.

But Why So Late?

Jack Lipp, secretary of Cigar Makers' Union No. 97, one of the largest unions of Massachusetts:

"It seems strange, to say the least, that Governor Draper at this late day, should call attention to the difference between the word 'work' and 'works' in connection with the eight-hour bill. His objection should have been made while that bill was before the Legislature or in his veto message. The time for such legislation has passed."

New Bedford, for many reasons, seems to be the centre of the Federation of Labor attack this year. Several labor rallies have been held in the Whaling City. Two of the five Republican nominees for the House of Representatives, the labor leaders say, will vote against Draper.

Former Alderman Fred J. Kneeland and Dennis D. Driscoll of Boston return to New Bedford to-night for the purpose of addressing a rally in Carpenters' Hall. Draper carried New Bedford last year by 1,735 votes. Douglas carried the city in 1904 by 1,673. The labor advocates say that the New Bedford vote this year will be the surprise of Tuesday.

Big Meeting at Lowell.

One of the biggest meetings of labor's campaign will be held at Lowell to-morrow afternoon. Joseph F. Convery, President of the Trades and Labor Council, will preside. Mr. Convery is a member of the Executive Committee of the State Branch Campaign Committee. His speakers will include John Cashman of the Painters' and Decorators' Union of Boston; D. Healey, President of the Lowell Leather Workers' Union; Thomas M. Nolan of Boston Typographical Union and Charles W. Hanscom, President of the Quincy Central Labor Union.

"In the great mass of political news and rally stories and 'questions' from this candidate and 'answers' from that," Chairman Wall says, "the public is likely to have overlooked the forcefulness, seriousness and importance of the fight which organized labor is conducting against Draper on its own hook. We are the third party in this contest.

"We realize that if legislation in favor of the wage earner is not to be held back in this State, Governor Draper has got to be beaten. We hope to be the instrumentality through which his defeat is consummated. In any event we are working with all our might. If our reports can be relied upon Governor Draper—not the Republican party—Governor Draper, is going down in defeat."

TAP BARREL TO DEFEAT RILEY

"Defeat Riley even if you neglect the Draper-Frothingham campaign."

This was the message flashed to Malden to-day by big financial interests in the State street section. Someone with a barrel of money has taken hold of the anti-Riley campaign. Thomas P. Riley is a candidate for a third term in the House of Representatives. He is the first Democrat in many years to be elected to the Legislature from Republican Malden.

During his two terms he has been the leader in debates against corporation and anti-labor measures. He is a gifted orator, and several times has turned the tide against the measures backed by big financial interests.

The coming fight on the income tax amendment and the certainty that Representative Riley will lend the income tax advocates if he is re-elected, is worrying the interests, which do not want the tax imposed.

HILL LAUDED AS MORAN IMITATOR

Arthur Dehon Hill, who attacked John B. Moran and ridiculed Moran policies, is lauded as an imitator of Moran in a statement issued to-day by the Hill managers. The statement includes a letter from Robert Pirie, foreman of the Grand Jury which served partly in the Moran and partly in the Hill regime. According to Mr. Pirie, Mr. Hill should be elected because he is conducting the district attorney's office in exactly the same manner as Moran did. Mr. Pirie hopes, he says, that the popular feeling for Moran will revert to Mr. Hill.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

GARDNER RAPS FOES OF BOSS

Patrick M. Longan, Republican State committeeman from the Third Essex District, and Fred E. Smith, Republican leader and former postmaster at Newburyport, were sharply attacked by Congressman Gardner at a Republican rally at Gloucester. The rally was poorly attended, but all Gloucester knew of the attack on Longan before Gardner had left the city.

Longan and Smith are two of many Republican leaders in Essex County who have not hesitated to denounce as "bosses" the Republican machine leaders who have killed direct nominations and other worthy measures.

Postmaster Charles D. Brown of Gloucester is opposed for re-appointment by Longan and other Essex leaders. Gardner threw down the gauntlet at last night's rally by calling for anyone in the hall who opposed Brown's re-appointment to "stand up and show himself." He told the gathering that if he lived until Brown's present term expired he would recommend re-appointment, and promised to leave a message in his will—if he should die—asking that Brown be re-appointed.

BLOCK G. O. P. WAR TO TURN DOWN WHITE

The plan of G. O. P. leaders to make an eleventh hour fight against Representative Norman H. White of Brookline was blocked to-day by an open declaration from Representative William F. Garcelon, Republican floor leader of the House during 1908 and 1909, that he, too, believes that Thomas E. Pattison, Republican nominee for Senator on the Cape district, should be defeated for election.

Norman White is now down on Cape Cod fighting for the election of John E. White—no relation—over Pattison. John White and Pattison were rival candidates for the Republican nomination for Senator from the district. Pattison won in the convention by one vote. Down on the Cape they are saying harsh things about the way that one vote was captured.

Norman White doesn't know much about John White. But he knows a lot about Tom Pattison, and he is telling the Cape voters that the persons whom Pattison has best represented on Beacon Hill are the State House lobbyists and the loan sharks.

Norman White isn't popular with the G. O. P. machine leaders. He has fought against many of their plans. So the leaders saw an opportunity to give him a fight for re-election on the ground that he was butting into a foreign district and fighting a regular Republican nominee. They planned to have stickers bearing the name of some other Republican candidate distributed at the polls in Brookline next Tuesday with orders to vote for the "sticker" candidate instead of for White.

"But Garcelon, whom no one dares to charge with party disloyalty, saved the day by declaring flatfootedly that "it will be better for the Commonwealth and for the Republican party to have Mr. White elected over Mr. Pattison."

TAILORS SEE BIG VICTORY BY UNION

With three shops already signed up in its twenty-one week fight against the open-shop order of the local employers' association, the Ladies Tailors and Dressmakers Union to-day announced that it was carrying its organizing campaign beyond the confines of Greater Boston and had secured a straight union agreement with M. M. Spiller of Lynn.

The strike is still on in eight of the ten shops originally affected by the suspension of work on June 1 in Boston. Two of these shops, however, are said to be negotiating with the union for a settlement, the officers of which declare that a sweeping victory for their organization will follow in a few days. Not one of the strikers has deserted the union since the trouble started.

IVINS SEES A LANDSLIDE FOR HEARST

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The following estimate on Tuesday's election was made yesterday by William M. Ivins at Civic Alliance headquarters:

"The situation is now clear enough to permit a fair estimate of what the vote for Mayor is likely to be next Tuesday.

"The total registration this year is 644,554, or about the same as that of four years ago. The latter contained at least 20,000 false entries; the normal increase should be at least 10,000 a year, so we may regard the present registration as about 20,000 short of normal, and containing at least 20,000 new voters, on whose vote that of four years ago throws no light. That three-fourths of them are progressive there can be no doubt, and Mr. Bannard would certainly get not more than 5,000 of these.

Where Gaynor Will Lose.

"The total vote for the three leading candidates for Mayor will be about the same as last year, or, say 595,000 (in view of the shift of the Socialist vote toward Gaynor). Of approximately 590,000 votes cast for the leading candidates in 1905 Mr. McClellan got 228,407, Mr. Hearst 224,929 and myself 137,184.

"Mr. Hearst's vote and mine combined were 133,706 greater than Mr. McClellan's. Mr. McClellan's 228,407 contained at least 40,000 Republican votes, which Mr. Gaynor will not get. I think half of these would go to Bannard and half to Hearst. This would reduce the McClellan-Gaynor vote from 228,000 to 188,000, and I think Gaynor will lose at least 5,000 votes through his own weakness, part of which may be made good by Socialists.

"Bannard will have the 137,000 I had, 20,000 of the McClellan Republican vote and 5,000 or possibly 10,000 new or hopeful Republicans—say, not to exceed 167,000.

Gives Hearst 243,000.

"Hearst will lose none of his old Republican and Democratic vote, and will get half of the McClellan Republican vote, with at least 5,000 new Republicans and half, or 10,000 of the new vote, which would just give him the difference or balance—say 243,000.

"I look, then, for this result: Hearst, 243,000; Gaynor, 183,000 to 185,000; Bannard, 167,000—a total of 595,000—the difference of 5,000 in the total over four years ago being in the Socialist vote, which will go to Gaynor.

"If I am right, Mr. Hearst will be very handsomely elected, and if there is a full realization of this possibility before election I look for a landslide which will give him a majority of all the votes cast."

The "Labor" Bill Which Was Vetoed by Governor Draper

The title of this Bill was "An Act to Constitute Eight Hours a Day's Work for Public Employees," but the eight-hour work day for public employees had already been established by law in this State in 1906, and by amendments to the law made in 1907.

The existing law provides that eight hours shall constitute a day's work for all workmen employed by the State, the counties, and by such cities and towns as had accepted the eight-hour statute; and it also provides that no workman so employed, or employed by a contractor on public work, shall be "requested or required" to work over eight hours per day, except in cases of emergency. The Legislatures of 1906 and 1907 clearly provided that workmen should not be "requested or required" to work more than eight hours. The vetoed Bill provided that they "shall not be permitted" to work more than eight hours, even for extra pay, and when they desire to do so. It is well understood that workmen receive extra pay for working extra time. The promoters of the vetoed Bill desire that workmen shall be prohibited earning extra money by working extra time.

Not Like the Federal Statute

It is claimed that this vetoed Bill was similar to the United States Eight Hour law, but as a matter of fact, it was radically and fundamentally different. The United States Law applies to workmen employed "upon any of the public works," while the vetoed Bill applied to workmen employed "for or upon any public work." The words "upon any of the public works" apply to work performed in or upon Government buildings, navy yards, arsenals, reservations, waterways, the Panama Canal, etc., and the limitation of the hours of labor does not apply to work performed elsewhere by contractors upon articles which are being made for the Government. But the words "for or upon any public work" clearly apply to any labor which is being performed by workmen employed by contractors who are doing any public work, even if the work is being performed at the contractor's plant. The Bill excluded "materials and supplies" (such as lumber, bricks, cloth, iron, etc., which can be purchased in the open market), but as soon as workmen started to work on such materials, or to manufacture them into articles for the State, counties, etc., they were, by the proposed Bill, prohibited over eight hours per day.

Never Could Pass Congress

This vetoed Bill is similar to Bills which have been before Congress for a number of years, but which have never become laws, although the Congressional Bills applied of course only to workmen engaged on Government work.

Discrimination Against Citizens of Massachusetts

The vetoed Bill applied only to workmen in this State, and thus discriminated against citizens of this State and in favor of contractors and workmen in other states:

Are the employees of the State, counties, cities and towns willing to be deprived of the right, which they have always enjoyed, of working over eight hours per day, if by so doing they can earn extra pay?

Are the workmen employed by contractors willing to be deprived of the right, which they have always enjoyed, of working over eight hours per day, if by so doing they can earn extra pay?

Do the citizens of Massachusetts wish to see contracts for public work, which can be performed in this State, go to other states BECAUSE OF SUCH LEGISLATIVE RESTRICTION?

We believe that the workmen of Massachusetts will commend Governor Draper for his veto of this Bill.

"Skinny Scarecrow"

If you Don't Want to Be Like One, Get Busy and Put Some Flesh on Your Bare Bones. Protone Will Help You to Do It.

If you feel all right and satisfied being lean and skinny, your friends don't. You are not nice and comfortable to look at and have around. The chances are, too, that you are nervous and cross; nerves starved as well as flesh and whining and teasing for their natural food, and hence irritableness. Your room is better than your company oftentimes and you wonder why?

Extreme leanness denotes poor health; a wrong disposition of the body's resources. And this must be corrected or the worst consequences may follow. There is bad assimilation; the food is not making the right sort of stuff that it should; imperfect nutrition follows, and, as bad as it is, it may not reach its destination. Starvation is going on and the flesh is the first to feel the famine. PROTONE steps in here with its corrective agencies and things are put to right.

The machinery of the whole system is reduced to healthy action and every function of the body is at its old stand doing its duty. PROTONE is a flesh-maker and muscle-mechanic. Its province is to rebuild what has been wantonly torn down.

Protone, the Remarkable Tissue Builder, Builds up Cases Like This in Remarkably Quick Time.

PROTONE will transform a thin, skinny woman into a fine-looking, attractive one, full of life and animation. The kind of woman people worth while say nice things about. It will round out the cheeks and cover up the bare bones of the face. Give symmetry to the figure and make graceful in shape that which was uncouth and unlovely. It is a miracle worker for women, making form and face beautiful as nature intended.

Men as a rule care more for feelings than looks, but PROTONE does a two-fold service for them, makes them look better and feel better at the same time. From origin to insertion, it builds a muscle over, fills it out and gives it its best proportion. PROTONE helps nature assert itself, and life takes on a new meaning and added value.

It will cost you nothing to prove the remarkable effects of this treatment. No dieting or eating of particular kinds of foods are necessary. The treatment is absolutely non-injurious to the most delicate system. The Protone Company, 1753 Protone Building, Detroit, Mich., will send to any one who sends name and address a free 50c. package of Protone (with full instructions) to prove that it does the work. They will also send you their book on "Why You Are Thin," free of charge, giving facts which will probably astonish you. Send coupon below to-day with your name and address.

FREE PROTONE COUPON

This coupon is good for a free 50c. package (all charges prepaid) of Protone, the remarkable scientific discovery for building up thin people, together with our free book telling why you are thin, if sent with ten cents in silver or stamps to help cover postage and packing, and as evidence of good faith, to

SAYS COLLEGE GIRLS MAKE BEST WIVES

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30.—"The college bred woman is better equipped, mentally and physically, than her sister who has not been to college.

"The college woman makes the better and happier wife and mother.

"The college woman is more helpful, both in her home and in aiding to uplift humanity in general."

Such, in effect, Miss H. Cary Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr College, told the brainy and good looking members of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, who are holding a convention at the University of Cincinnati.

Miss Thomas is chairman of the committee that has gathered statistics about college women in the United States. In her report, she presented figures which she said proved conclusively:

Only eight college bred women out of 1,000 have ill health.

When women and men are educated together there is no greater number of marriages between them than when they are educated apart.

College women marry stronger men than women who have never sported gown and mortar-board.

College-bred women choose their husbands more evenly than other women do. They choose wealthier husbands, on the average; the husbands of college women earn one-third higher salaries than the husbands of women who never learned to conjugate "amo."

Each college-bred mother who has been to college has three and six-tenths children on the average, which is to say that ten college-bred mothers have thirty-six children.

Ten women who have not been to college have thirty-five children, an average of three and five-tenths each.

WAR PHOTOGRAPHS GO TO SPRINGFIELD

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 30.—The Patriot Publishing Company of Springfield, Mass., has been organized here to take over the Brady collection of 7,000 negatives taken under the secret service protection on the battlefields of the Civil War, which President Garfield valued thirty years ago, at $150,000. J. Pierpont Morgan wanted to add them to his collection. Herbert Myrick, head of the Phelps Publishing Company of Springfield, and Harcourt W. Bull, a young Springfield millionaire, will be treasurer. The Brady collection, now on exhibition at West Point, will be sent to Springfield to-morrow.

MAINE DOUGLAS SHOE FACTORY MAY REMAIN

SPRINGVALE, Me., Oct. 30.—What is regarded as substantial indication that the return to work of the employes of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company's plant in this place will not be removed is the return to work of the employes of the stitching department. This department has been shut down for three weeks, and it has been feared that this was an indication that the business would not be continued here. The fact that the stitchers returned to their work is taken as evidence that the fears were groundless. The number of employes in all departments is about 400, of whom over 100 are stitchers.

WINE OF '55 SERVED TO WEDDING GUESTS

NEW LONDON, Ct., Oct. 30.—A bottle of Madeira, taken to and brought back from the Arctic Circle on the Resolute in 1855, was drunk in toasts here.

The occasion was the marriage of W. K. Sheffield and Edith Marie Chappell. The wine had been saved by the bride's father.

WOULD HAVE GAYER NAVAL UNIFORMS

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Admiral Le Pord, who was in command of the French squadron at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York last month, has made a report, declaring that the Frenchmen's uniforms made a poor showing among the brilliant uniforms of the other naval contingents at the celebration.

BENCH AND BAR HONOR GASKILL

The bench and bar of Suffolk County paid a notable tribute to the memory of the late Judge Francis A. Gaskill of the Superior Court when the Bar Association met in the court house to-day and adopted resolutions on his death, after which addresses were made by Chief Justice Aiken and prominent members of the bar. Moorfield Storey was chosen chairman, after which the resolutions offered by Charles P. Greenough were adopted. Court then convened, Judges Hammond and Loring of the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Aiken and Judges Wait, Pierce, Brown, Harris, Raymond, Sherman and Richardson of the Superior Court being present.

M'CULLOUGH GLAD CASSIDY GETS LIBERTY

"I am delighted that James Cassidy has been set free," declared Leo F. McCullough, ex-president of the Boston Common Council, who is serving a term at Deer Island for the larceny of $200 from the city.

McCullough and Cassidy were convicted together, though McCullough declared that Cassidy never got a cent from the deal.

John P. Feeney, attorney for McCullough, visited him at Deer Island yesterday, and they talked about the release of Cassidy.

"McCullough was very happy over the release of his friend," said Mr. Feeney to-day. "We did not discuss the possibility of a pardon or release for him, and there is no movement to obtain his release at present. I think it is too early yet to ask for a pardon. A little later something may be done."

DESEVED THE HOOK, AND HOOK HE GOT

With plenty of hook night amateurs of the very rankest brand there was nothing to do but sit back and laugh at the Columbia. How they managed to get the impression that they were "talented" is still a mystery, but their faults will have to be overlooked, as they contributed more screaming fun in one hour than was thought possible to crowd into that limited space of time. First among the funmakers was a blonde youth with a voice that even the orchestra leader had hard work to hear and such a sad and mournful face that it looked as if the whole world had turned against him. Then there was an individual with a recitation concerning the North Pole controversy but the audience would not stand for that. The blank verse thing never did go in the Columbia. He was loud in his praise of Cook, but some unmannerly Pearylite behind the scenes tried to give his the hook and he made his biggest hit by dodging the instrument. That was evidently as near as he will get to the Pole.

The winners were Dan McQuarry and Eddie Daily, and they so far eclipsed the others that there was no such thing as a third choice. Young McQuarry's singing was the richest treat of the season, and more than made up for the shortcomings of the other vocalists who appeared on the bill and had the crowd with him from the start.

SCIENCE BOARD SCORES STETSON FOLLOWERS IN SHARP CHURCH LETTER

Severely rebuking E. F. Hatfield, chairman of the committee appointed by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York, to investigate the recent dismissal of Mrs. Augusta Stetson from her position as leader of the New York Church, the Boston Board of Directors of the Christian Science Church, in a letter published in the Christian Science Sentinel to-day attacks the motives of the investigating committee and casts doubt on the honesty of its purpose.

Mr. Hatfield wrote to the Boston church asking for letters and complaints against Mrs. Stetson, which may have been forwarded from New York to show that her teachings were not in accordance with those of Mrs. Eddy. The reply, signed by John V. Dittemore, secretary of the Boston Board of Directors, refuses without condition to give any papers, and reflects on the honesty of the committee's purpose in asking for them. Mr. Dittemore's letter to Mr. Hatfield concludes:

"The membership of your church includes a large number of splendid people, and we hope that your committee will not subordinate their interests and the actual interests of all the parties concerned to a mere personal attachment."

"Plenty of Witnesses."

The entire letter is as follows:

Dear Sir: We do not know of any complaints or notices from members of your church, such as are described in your letter dated October 21; the evidence received during the inquiry recently held by this board was given orally. Since then we have received many letters from members of your church, but none of them could possibly be called complaints, and the most of them only expressed the writer's satisfaction at the progress of a house-cleaning in your church.

The absence of such complaints need not, however, hamper your inquiry; there are plenty of witnesses both within and without the present membership of your church who can furnish the evidence for which your committee is seeking or ought to be seeking. Their names should be known to you by reason of your presence for many years in the inner circle of Mrs. Stetson's students.

And if your committee would permit the First Reader of your church to take part in the inquiry, as provided by Article III, Sections 7 and 8 of the manual, he is able and willing to furnish the names of witnesses and to aid in obtaining their testimony, unless your committee has resolved itself into a committee solely for the defence of Mrs. Stetson.

Defence of Teachers.

The fact that your committee has excluded Mr. Strickler from this function and the fact that your committee has appointed in his stead a person whose card has been removed from the Christian Science Journal and to whom this board recently gave an admonition that is as yet unrescinded, these facts are circumstances tending strongly to impeach the good faith of the inquiry now being conducted by your committee.

Nor do these facts stand alone; for instance when the persons who now constitute a majority of your committee were in one room in the mother church on September 24, 1909, and we were inviting them to listen to a statement of the conditions disclosed by our investigation, their sole purpose appeared to be the defence of their teacher, whom their spokesman referred to as "the teacher."

During the recent inquiry held by the board it was put in evidence that you had on three different occasions spoken to Mr. Strickler of Mrs. Stetson's practice in regard to treating persons without their consent as being contrary to the teachings of Christian Science.

Position Anomalous.

According to the entries in his dairy you had a conversation with him on February 13, 1909, in which you referred to her practice in this respect as "shocking." You also said to him on March 22, 1909, while referring to audible treatments which she gave in the "practitioners meetings" held in your church edifice, that it fairly made you tremble to hear her make those attacks against persons, and on March 26, 1909, you showed him extracts from the writings of our leader, Mrs. Eddy, to prove that Mrs. Stetson's practice was contrary to Mrs. Eddy's teachings. If these statements are true, and we have not heard them denied, your position as the writer of the letter now before us is quite anomalous.

The membership of your church includes a large number of splendid people, and we hope that your committee will not subordinate their interests and the actual interests of all parties concerned to a "mere personal attachment." (Church Manual, Article VII, Section 1.) Sincerely yours,

The Christian Science Board of Directors,
JOHN V. DITTEMORE, Secretary.

GOT FARM SHE PRAYED FOR.

ABERDEEN, S. D., Oct. 30.—Standing idly at the final drawing of winners in the Cheyenne River and the Standing Rock Indian reservations, Mrs. Sylvia R. Gilbert of Sandusky, O., a widow of sixty years, was thrilled to see her own name opposite number No. 4358. She had won a farm. "Thank God," she cried, "my prayer has been answered." She had worked nights in a hotel to pay her way to Aberdeen and sat all days to hear her name, but when it was called she had fallen asleep.

Why We Make This Offer

Just in order to demonstrate beyond any question or doubt that our Straight Kentucky Whiskey has no equal at any price for purity, wholesomeness, mellowness and whiskey quality, we make the above offer, which is the final word that can be said by any distiller on price and quality. We are registered distillers and know the whiskey business from start to finish, and know that once you try these goods you will want no other.

Notice the announcements of other distillers and mail order whiskey houses, and see if they offer Straight Kentucky Whiskey, see if they guarantee or even state that their whiskey is no blend, no compound or mixture. While you probably know what straight whiskey means, yet we wish again to state that straight whiskey means exactly what the word implies—straight—not blended with cheap wines, etc., to reduce cost per quart—not compounded with adulterated mixtures, but every drop straight whiskey, and nothing but whiskey!

Some other distillers do offer straight Kentucky Whiskey, but just look at their prices in comparison with ours.

We have noticed this blended, adulterated stuff sold under the name of whiskey for some time, and believe it a good business step on our part to make an offer that even the dealers in adulterated trash cannot equal, in order to quickly induce all whiskey purchasers to try our Straight Kentucky Whiskey and see the difference.

In Defiance of Actual Cost

You will notice that some whiskey houses have resorted to giving a present as an inducement to get your order for their whiskey. When you buy whiskey, make the quality of the goods and price get your order—no need of giving premiums with whiskey, if you are right on price and quality.

This unheard-of offer is made in defiance of actual cost to us. Now, then, we absolutely guarantee this whiskey to be Straight Kentucky Whiskey—so pure and mellow that it will cost you not less than from $3.50 to $4.00 per gallon to duplicate in the regular way. Send us $4.75, either Express or P. O. Money Order, Registered Currency or St. Louis Exchange (no personal checks, we cannot afford to pay exchange on them), and we will at once ship you 12 full quart bottles (3 gallons) of this superior Straight Kentucky Whiskey. After receiving the whiskey put it to any test you like, and if not entirely satisfactory, do not hesitate to return them and get your money back at once. Every statement in this announcement is backed by a company with a $500,000 paid-up capital.

$1,000 OFFER We offer $1,000 to anyone who can prove through any test, whatever, that this whiskey is not Straight Kentucky Whiskey, or that we do not refund the money to anyone requesting it according to above conditions.

Remember, we ship all goods in plain, sealed packages, with no marks to indicate contents. You can make your remittance payable and address your letters to the firm, or to the manager, and they will receive the same immediate attention. All orders shipped same day received.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

JEFF TO BATTLE WITH JOHNSON TO A FINISH

JEFF AND JOHNSON TO GO ON STAGE BEFORE THEY BEGIN TRAINING

By C. E. VAN LOAN.

NEW YORK, Oct 30.—Without a serious argument or one black look, without the customary stage abuse and the time-honored threats, Jim Jeffries and Johnson met yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Albany, in New York city, and came to a peaceable agreement to fight forty-five rounds or more for the heavyweight championship of the world.

There were only two hitches in the course of the afternoon's debate. The first one, which amounted to nothing whatever, took up more time than the second, which was vital and important. Sammy Berger, principal, insisted on placing Jeffries' name first in the articles. Little, Johnson's manager, would not agree to this, and there was a deadlock for several minutes while the great men squabbled.

The second hitch came when the division of the purse was mentioned.

"How do you want to divide the purse, old Kid?" asked Little of Johnson.

"Any way will suit me," answered Johnson.

"How about that, Jeff?" asked Berger.

How They Split Purse.

"There's been a lot of talk about this splitting of the purse," said he. "You said in Chicago that you wanted to fight, winner take all, 75 and 25 or 60 and 40."

"You said, too, that you wanted to bet me $20,000 on the side. The way I want to fight is winner take all, and I want that side bet of $20,000."

This declaration drew a cheer from the crowd. Johnson hesitated for a few seconds.

"I'll fight, winner take all," he said, "but I don't want that side bet. Let's bet the $5,000 we already have posted. Is that agreeable, Mr. Jeffries?"

Jeff then took time to get his mighty brain into action, and after some time remarked:

"I'd like to get that $20,000," said he, grinning.

"Yes, and I don't want you to get that $20,000, Mr. Jeffries," said Johnson, showing his teeth.

"I'll fight you any way you say," said Johnson. "Winner take all."

"How about it, Jeff?" said Berger.

"All right, it goes," said Jim.

Then Mr. Little oozed himself into the argument.

"Now, hold on," said he. "I ain't going to eat any snowballs next Winter if this fight should happen to go wrong; let's make the thing seventy-five and twenty-five."

"All right," said Johnson, quickly. "Anything suits me."

"All right," said Jeff, "that $5,000 we already have up—that goes as a side bet."

"Yes, that goes," said Johnson.

Sailing Becomes Easy.

The rest of the afternoon's work was easy.

Bids are to be opened one month from date and the best one is to be selected. The men are to fight some time before July 5.

It was plain from the conversation at the table that neither man cares to fight outside of this country, and all propositions were made looking toward the acceptance of a California bid. Two forfeits of $5,000 were posted yesterday, which were added to the $10,000 which the men already have up, and from the businesslike tone of the afternoon's proceeding, there will be no question about the match being assured. If one man defaults his $5,000 is to be turned over immediately to the other principal.

It was a notable gathering, a grand round-up of all the thick-necked gentlemen on Broadway, plentifully decorated with diamonds, horseshoes and cauliflower ears. A long, narrow room on the second floor had been set apart for the meeting, and the crowd was on hand early, jamming upon the table upon which there was enough paper to carry the draft of the new city charter and enough ink to write a three-volume novel.

Jeffries shouldered his way to the front at 3:05, preceded by the faithful but nervous Berger. Johnson arrived at 3:15. The principals did not speak. Jeff sat at one end of the table and rubbed his chin. Johnson grinned and took the other end. The flashlighters flashlighted to their heart's content and filled the room with smoke, which gave Johnson a chance to make an atrocious pun.

Start Ball Rolling.

"I suppose the usual form, eh," said Samivel, huskily.

"Yes," said Little, "between so and so and so and so to fight for the heavyship—no heavyweightship."

And thus, with both managers nervous and both principals calm and collected, the momentous proceedings opened.

The stenographer, imported for the occasion, had been looking upon the grape when it foamed, and he was very much at sea. He got his notes into a hopeless muddle, and was cast out with the kindly remark from Johnson that while he might be all very well in a court of law, he was not skilled in fighting verbiage.

Every goat around the table horned in time and time again with suggestions, and certainly no set of articles have ever been drawn under more perplexing circumstances.

Little wanted to pick a referee. Jeffries, more experienced, reminded Little that the club would have something to say about that.

"Suppose we fight in Los Angeles," said he. "We would not want a San Francisco referee, or the other way round. Let the club have a hand in that."

"Quite so," said Mr. Johnson. "It might go outside this country," suggested Little.

"No, sir,' said Johnson. "Nevah git me in Australia no meah than on."

"How about Oklahoma?"

"Nope," said Johnson. "No Oklahoma for mine. You can go there (to Little), but not me."

"Let 'Em Bid," Says Jack.

"Let 'em bid it," said Johnson, cheerfully, "then we'll go somewhere else."

When the question of the length of fight came up Jeffries put himself on record for a decisive battle.

"The people would holler their heads off if we went to a decision," said he. "This has got to be practically a finish fight. Me for forty rounds or more."

Johnson argued for one San Francisco club inside the city limits which had an offer of $75,000 and would not be allowed to hold a fight of longer duration than twenty rounds, but Jeffries was firm, and at last Johnson said, "Quite so," once more and that point was settled.

Bob Murphy will hold the $10,000 side bet and forfeit money, making $20,000 in all because, said Johnson, if Murphy ran out there would still be the hotel and he could board the money out.

ment there is no room for question as to the sincerity of either one of the big fighters. Jeffries sprung a surprise when he demanded the winner take all and the $20,000 side bet. Johnson wisely saved himself on the side bet, stating that he might get better odds than even money for all he cared to bet on his own chances, and it was Little who would not agree to the winner take all.

At the end of thirty days the club will be selected, a forfeit posted by the fortunate organization and Jeffries will go into training. Johnson feels that he does not need to hurry his preparations if the fight is to be six months off. July 5 was named as the outside limit. As a matter of fact the men are figuring on fighting in California during a month when they may reasonably expect sunny weather for the sake of the moving pictures, which will be worth a fortune.

"JOHN ARTHUR JOHNSON."

Both men have many theatrical offers and both their managers said that they would probably "scoop in a little expense money" before going into strict training.

MAX LANDY TO BOX AT ARMORY

Max Landy, the Roxbury amateur fighter, proved to be the star short distance scrapper in the amateur tourney at the Armory A. A. last night, beating his first opponent in a minute and taking the semi-final test in five seconds. His foe in the final bout preferred to default and Landy won the 115 pound class title.

M. Stickey of the U. S. S. New Jersey waded through the 125-pound class, but had to go at his best to lick Gus Foley in the final bout.

MURPHY TO GET BOUTS ON COAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Tommy Murphy has received transportation from the Mission Club of 'Frisco, and is willing to go West to box as soon as he knows what the terms are. Johnny Oliver has been too long in the game to take such a long trip and come out with nothing, as Leach Cross did.

Murphy has several good offers of work in the East and is going to box wherever there is money. He is wanted in Memphis to go against Paddy Sullivan, and Boston offers him a chance with Ray Bronson or Ad Wolgast.

Oliver still thinks that Murphy is a sure champion, and that he will clean up wherever he goes.

• • •

Leach Cross has lost the chance to meet fighting Dick Hyland in Pittsburg. His showing with Harry Stone was so poor that the Pittsburg promoters have called the deal off.

The impression in Pittsburg is that Cross and Stone did a "brother" turn and that they had rehearsed it carefully before entering the ring.

The idea is undoubtedly wrong, for Cross is always anxious to win, and even were he fighting with brother Sam would surely try to get over the punch.

• • •

Cross has done little in the fight line lately, and probably his next showing will be lots better.

• • •

William W. Hickey, president and matcher of the Bijou A. C. of Binghamton, writes that he is about to put on a lot of good fights there and wants to hear from good New York boxers wishing work.

• • •

The talk that Battling Nelson is afraid to meet Ad Wolgast in a forty-five round bout for the title looks bad. The Dane has never yet shown that he feared any one at the forty distance and it looks a cinch that he would fight Wolgast pretty quickly if the terms he insists on were met.

Nelson asks $10,000 for his end to fight any one, and as he is pretty well fixed it is likely that he will not don a glove for less.

• • •

Still the rumors will not down that the clubs in this city will hold some stags after election.

• • •

• • •

Dougherty has matched Mike Glover to box the star bout at the new Philadelphia A. C., Philadelphia, next Monday. Glover is to meet Tommy O'Keef.

EAST BOSTON HIGH TO BATTLE SALEM

East Boston High School, strengthened by the return of two of the regular men, will play the strong Salem High School team this afternoon at Salem. That the Noddle Islanders have improved under the coaching of Fred L. O'Brien was shown in their game with Chelsea. All the boys are in good condition and will make Salem go some to win the game.

MURPHY BESTED NITCHIE.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—Tommy Murphy of New York had the better of Young Nitchie of Kensington in the wind-up at the Nonpariel Athletic Club. Murphy had every round with the exception of the fifth. He had Nitchie in bad shape at the final bell.

POWELL WINS BY K. O. IN 8TH

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 30.—Johnny Frayne came to grief in the eighth round of his fight with Lew Powell at the Coliseum, when the police stopped the fight and Powell won the decision. Frayne had been knocked down twice in this round and was sent down a third time when the police interfered. Up to the eighth round Powell did all the fighting, Frayne constantly running away. In the eighth, however, Frayne assumed the aggressive, but came to grief. The men fought at 133 pounds. The preliminary between Conny McCarthy and Frank Smith at 133 pounds was a draw.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

O'BRIEN CLAIMS HE GOT A RAW DEAL

Freddie O'Brien, the fast little Chelsea scrapper considers that he got a raw deal when the decision was given against him in his bout with Albert Delmont at Lawrence, and wants another chance to prove that the award was wrong. O'Brien will let Delmont dictate any terms in order to get him in the ring. He will post any amount as a forfeit to bind the match, and also make a side bet. He believes that if Delmont ignores him in the present case that it is fear on the part of the Italian fighter.

CHICAGO SURE OF NEW PARK

CCHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Ground will soon be broken for a new steel and cement grand stand on the proposed American Association baseball site at Sheffield avenue and Madison street.

The property was bought last Spring in the name of Charles S. Havenor, owner of the Milwaukee American Association club.

Havenor acted as agent in the transaction and although being the majority owner other association magnates were interested in the deal, among the rest being M. E. Cantillon, of the Minneapolis club, and his brother, Joe, late manager of the Washington team.

Among those well posted on the affairs of the association magnates it was said yesterday that the occupancy of the grounds does not necessarily mean an immediate entrance of the league in Chicago society, although that is the ultimate object of the promoters.

The real plan back of the enterprise, it was said, was to bring in John Kling, the former Cub catcher, here from Kansas City to be at the head of a semi-professional team in which case the city league would be reorganized or else enlarged to eight clubs.

OMAN TAKES ONE MATCH.

In the tenth game of the B Class, amateur billiard tourney, at the Hub Palace last night, Oman defeated Goodwin by 200 to 104. Oman made an average of 4 8-48, the record so far. Monday evening Raffaele plays Martin.

GOODMAN LOSES TO DONAHUE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 30.—Young Donahue of Boston earned a decision over Kid Goodman of Boston in a fifteen-round bout at the Queen City A. C.

The men seemed to have no friendly feeling for each other, and there was a dispute prior to the bout as to what rules should govern, but Donahue had his way. The boxers were admonished to break clean at the call of Referee Kenney, but Goodman struck his opponent several times after the referee had ordered them to break, and he was hissed by the crowd. Kenney was kept busy separating them.

Goodman leaped from his corner at the sound of the gong and lashed out wildly with rights and lefts for the body. That was his policy during the fight and Donahue employed his left jab to meet these rushes, bewildering Goodman at times. After the fifth round he seemed to have solved Goodman's style and he became more the aggressor. Goodman got in some hard stomach punches that distressed Donahue, and the latter called to the referee several times, claiming that Goodman was hitting low.

The decision was a popular one.

Young Lupine of Derry, toppled Young McGee of the same town over the ropes in the third round. McGee was the larger of the two, but had no guard, and Lupine, who was as thin as a match, hit him at will. He finished McGee with a right and left jab in quick succession that sent him over the ropes.

LANGFORD TO CROSS OCEAN

It may be the last appearance of Sam Langford here when he boxes Klondike, the Chicago Hercules, at the Armory Club Tuesday next, as he plans to go to England the day following. Langford is the best card in New England to-day, and as Klondike has proved his fistic ability in many hard fights the members expect a good bout.

Langford is to go abroad, as negotiations are now pending which mean that Sam will tour England, France and Australia. Realizing the interest that is being taken in the local and New York elections, the Armory Club has made arrangements to give a detailed account of the same.

Three excellent six-round bouts take place before the main event.

BALDWIN OUT TO WIN FROM RILEY

Matty Baldwin is confident that he will win over Willie Riley in the feature bout at the National A. C. of South Boston on Monday night. Matty has been hard at work conditioning and training for over a month. He is as hard as nails, is punching with more force than ever before, and is not only sure he will win, but also well inside the limit.

Riley is not at all boastful but has been plugging along in a quiet earnest manner and says that if Baldwin should win it will be because he is the better man. Willie compares Baldwin to Kid Manning of Pawtucket, claiming that the two box in a similar manner and everybody knows how easily Willie disposed of Manning. He says Matty's style is almost identical with that of Manning and feels that Matty is made to order for him.

JIM FLYNN BEATS BURNS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—Jim Flynn the fighting fireman scored a win over Jack Burns at the Pacific A. C. at the Naud Junction pavilion in their ten round battle. Flynn was a 10 to 9 favorite and had little trouble beating the heavier Burns.

YOUNG GOTCH WINS FROM THE SAILOR

KEENE, N. H., Oct. 30.—The third wrestling bout of the season here took place in Armory Hall before a fair-sized crowd. The bout was between Young Gotch of this city and Sailor Mack, champion of the U. S. Navy, at 142 pounds, and it is the second bout of the season in which Gotch has defeated Mack. It was catch-as-catch-can, with Edward P. Dee of Keene as referee and Benjamin F. Blythe as timer.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

DR. ROLLER LOSES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 30.—In a handicap wrestling match Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle threw Frank Prindle of Indianapolis in 19 minutes, but failed to throw Charles Olson of Indianapolis in 41 minutes. Roller had one hour in which to conquer both wrestlers.

HOT GAME IN MAINE TO-DAY TO DECIDE BEST TEAM

GAME WILL DECIDE BEST MAINE TEAM

WATERVILLE, Me., Oct. 30.—Bowdoin plays Colby to-day in what will be, for Bowdoin, the opening game of the Maine championship series. As Colby is considered stronger than both Bates and Maine, the Bowdoin-Colby game is expected in a large measure to settle the championship question. Colby, having already won from Bates, will have almost a clear field if she beats Bowdoin.

Bowdoin will go into the game strong and hopeful. The team is in good condition, though a few of the men are still suffering from injuries received last week. The lineup is yet undecided. Either King or Boynton will play centre. For quarter there are three candidates, Wiggin, Wilson and Sullivan, and there is little choice between them. The remainder of the team will be: "Babby" Smith, l. e.; Newman, l. t.; Hastings, l. g.; Pratt, r. g.; Crosby, r. t.; Hurley, r. e.; Farnham, r. h. b.; Frank Smith, l. h. b.; Kern, f. b.

HARDING A. A. PLAYS AT SWAMPSCOTT

The undefeated Harding A. A. of Revere will play the strong Swampscott team at Swampscott to-day. A special car will take the players from Revere to the grounds. Arrangements have been made to take about 100 rooters with the team, as the players are out to win the game and blank their opponents as has been the case against all teams this season.

FRANK JONES ALES

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

WELL, THANK HEAVEN, THOSE TWO eminent vaudeville stars, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Jeffries, have gotten together and framed up their Winter advertising. Now we can sleep o' nights confident that we will have several opportunities of witnessing their laudable efforts at elevating the stage. I was greatly worried that one of them might insist on signing articles for a match in March or April. This would have been a mistake, as the theatrical season would not be nearly ended so early. July 4 is a much better date. It gives the pair of them a chance to get all the money in the world, and then they won't need to fight. It seems to me I read something in the papers that Jeff and Johnson were both anxious to fight at an early date, but—but again—that was only bunk and the public likes to be bunked.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THESE pungent remarks emitted by Jeff since he arrived from abroad?

"Johnson is a joke."

"Johnson is nothing more or less than a mark for me."

"I am very nearly in condition and will fight him to-morrow."

"The earlier the date the better I will be suited."

"I have not given a thought to the stage. As soon as these articles are signed I am going to begin training."

"I will beat him easily; he is a lemon."

"I have thought all along that Johnson is bluffing and I still think so."

"Wouldn't it be a fine thing for me to get into the ring out of condition and get whipped?"

"I will need six months yet to get into condition."

"July 4, 1910, is the date I want, and that is the date we will fight."

No bunk in all this. Simply a lot of easy money laying around and Jeff is goin' after it, as probably you or I would do, only we haven't the chance. Oh, no. No bunk.

HERE'S ANOTHER FOOTBALL FAN who has been taxing his gray matter in an effort to dope out the winners of the gridiron battles this afternoon. Let's see how good he is:

Straight Dope, Boston American—
Dear Sir: Your interesting column has finally started my pen, together with "Quarterback," who, I trust, is not your alias. I have a hearty "shake on it" coming to him on his postscript, but the ingredients of my dope mixture produce a different compound, and if the fans don't use all of the reverse [illegible] Harvard 17, West Point 0, Yale 26, Amherst 0, Cornell 17, Williams 0, Tufts 22, Springfield T. S. 0, Dartmouth 18, Holy Cross 6, Brown 16, M. A. C. 0. I will settle with an ice cream soda at Thompson's spa Monday at 1 o'clock if I'm in wrong. F. A. S.
Reservoir court, Brookline.

Straight Dope, Boston American—
Please decide the following argument: A bets Fitzsimmons weighed 145 pounds when he fought Jeffries. B bets he weighed more. Who wins? J. L.

Straight Dope, Boston American—
Dear Sir: To settle a bet, please let me know through Straight Dope if Jack Blackburn and Sam Langford ever met in a glove contest in Boston, and oblige, DAN J. HAYES.
Cambridge.

AL WAMAN, MARLBORO, MASS.—Charley Street of the Washington club caught 136 games during the season just closed.

Straight Dope, Boston American—
Dear Sir: If you know of any recipe for reducing the weight of a boy five feet five inches tall who balances the scales at 140 pounds with clothes on and wishes to weigh 115 pounds, please print it in your column and oblige, yours truly,
West Quincy, Mass. B. BARRY.

That B in your name stands for bonehead, doesn't it? If not, it should. A boy five feet five has no business trying to reduce to 115 pounds, but in case you do, the best method for you is to quit eating for a few weeks.

Straight Dope, Boston American—
Dear Sir: Will you please help me through the American to settle a bet or an argument. Now, A bets B on a football game. A takes one side and B the other. C and D bet A that he is stuck. The game comes out a tie. Now, A and B's bet is declared off, but does C and D beat A or is it the other way? Yours very truly, E. F. C.
Gardner, Mass.

Call both bets off. There's a chance for an old worn-out argument on the technicality, but it's a draw all around.

Straight Dope:
Dear Sir: I noticed in your column that a number of the 105-pound boys are looking for matches. I have under my care "Scotty" Coyne of Manchester, who will be pleased to box either Kid Lee or Young Maloney before any of the clubs of New England. Coyne fought a draw with Maloney at the last meeting of the Queen City A. C. in Manchester, and I would be pleased to match him with Maloney at any time the latter is ready. Coyne has fought over 100 battles and has never taken the count. Yours truly,
A. J. CONLON,
Manchester, N. H. Manager of Scotty Coyne.

You've got your dope a little mixed, but it's not your fault. Scotty Coyne did not box with Maloney at Manchester. It was Kid Lee who boxed Coyne to a draw, but for some reason he boxed under Maloney's name, unknown to Maloney. However, I'm printing your challenge and probably some club will offer to stage the bout.

Milford, Mass., Oct. 26, '09.
Straight Dope, Boston American:
Will you please tell me the real name of "Cy" Young and where he was born. Yours respectfully, FOOTBALL.

His name is Denton T. Young and he was born in Ohio.

Oct. 25, 1909.
Straight Dope, Boston American:
Will you please answer this for me, as I have heard many arguments over it. In a game of pitch seven points is game. A has six points and B has five. B bids two and makes high and game, and A makes Jack before B makes his two points. Who wins? Will a player bidding and making what he bids always go out ahead? Thanking you, a constant reader, F. NEWARK.
Norwood.

In the game of pitch the bidder always goes out first. The player who bids, according to rule, should count his points first and his opponent count his after the bidder.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir: I would like to play with some fast amateur or semi-professional basketball team this Winter in Boston. Played two seasons ago with the Buffalo, N. Y., Moose, professional champions of western New York, and last year in Boston captained the Roxbury Trimounts, who defeated such teams as the Pingree and Athenians. Thanking you in advance for the favor of inserting this, I am, Very truly yours,
JOHN F. BOGAN, JR.
5 King street, Roxbury, Mass.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir—Please insert this add in your Straight Dope column: The Lincoln A. A. of Somerville have not been scored on this year, and wish to claim the [illegible] championship; they would like to hear from the following: St. Paul's of Cambridge, Wellingtons, Kenilworth Academy, Chestnut Hill A. C. and especially the Roxbury Athletics or Richmonds. Any of these teams desiring to play the Lincoln A. A. please address the assistant manager, JOHN GURREY, No. 306 Washington street, Somerville, Mass.
P. S. The Lincoln A. A. are especially desirous to arrange a game for Thanksgiving afternoon at Lincoln park, Somerville, as all accommodations are made for a big game that day; please write as soon as possible to John Gurley, 306 Washington street, Somerville, Mass.

THOMAS Ks. JOYCE, WARMOUTHVILLE, Me.—Corbett defeated Sullivan and won the title in twenty-three rounds in New Orleans, on September 7, 1892.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
The Odell Club of Cliftondale would like to arrange basketball games for season of 1909-10, beginning November 6, 1909, with 120-140-pound fives. Write EDW. GIBBS, No. 6 Beacon street, room 814, Boston.

Malden, Mass.
Straight Dope, Boston American:
Through your Straight Dope will you kindly inform me where I could reach Black Fitz, the fighter, and the last you heard of him; also the horse that holds the pacing record for one-half mile. Thanking you. In return I will set up the [illegible] at any date. AL. PERKINS.

Black Fitz is now at Newcastle, Pa. A letter addressed to him there, in care of Jimmy Dime, will reach him. Dan Patch holds the world's record for one-half mile with a wind shield, 56 seconds; Prince Alert for one-half mile in a race, 57¾ seconds.

COMISKY SPENDS BIG MONEY FOR NEW PLAYERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—"Spending $100,000 for players to win another pennant," might be the title of a book written about Charlie Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox.

The "Old Roman" has spent $110,000 for new men this year to get a pennant winner for 1910. On top of this he is building one of the finest parks in the country and has secured Hugh Duffy as manager.

Two forces determined Comiskey to spend the money. They are maxims: "There's no money in a loser," and "If one team wins all the pennants, the others might as well close shop."

Old Roman Has Won Flags.

Comiskey has won pennants and his success is evidence that if he sets about it he can come close to repeating.

This year the Sox finished fourth. Comiskey seemed indifferent. His attitude caused comment. Then Commy came out of it on the run and sent out "Ted" Sullivan scouting. Sullivan was on the jump until just before the drafting season, when twenty-two youngsters had been purchased.

South Side fans do not pin their hope of a winner on this injection of new blood, so much as upon Comiskey's promise that next year's pennant will float over the home of the White Sox.

"He never promised anything he didn't deliver," they declare. And Commy has spoken.

In picking men Sullivan scraped the land with a fine-toothed comb. Some fabulous prices were paid for men who may never don a Chicago uniform after the training season.

Some Good Ones Booked.

But if from the twoscore a Cobb or a Wagner is picked Comiskey will rejoice.

Some youngsters have been tried out already and they appear to be comers. Fred Olmstead, who started with the Sox, but was farmed out to Minneapolis, came back, and appears ripe.

Fred Lang, Des Moines' best pitcher, will go to San Diego, Cal., with the Sox next Spring. Des Moines also produced Frank Miller, a right-hander.

Then there is Irving Young, who did left-handed stunts for Minneapolis. He has been with Pittsburg and Boston, so the return will not be strange to him.

The out and infielders to be tried are numerous. Arnold Gandil of Sacramento, Warren Gill, Minneapolis, and William Dwyer, Des Moines, will fight it out for first base.

One of the finds is said to be James Collins, who batted .325 for Springfield, Connecticut League. White, a Springfield outfielder, is another .300 hitter gathered in.

Others purchased are J. Cole, of Wichita, Kan.; Walter Mannix, of Des Moines, outfielder; T. P. Dalton, from the same club, who is said to have made 12 hits in a double-header; Block, the Minneapolis catcher; Joe Beal, Los Angeles, outfielder; Rollin Barrows and S. Messenger, New England League, said to be the fastest men in the organization.

A $10,500 Beauty.

And there is Russell Blackburn, the Providence, R. I., shorstop, for whom Comiskey paid Hugh Duffy $10,500. Blackburn is said to be the most finished performer ever turned out of a minor league. Several teams were after him when Comiskey put in his bid.

Another who brought a record price is Rollie Zeider, purchased from San Francisco. Comiskey bought him last year, but decided he neded seasoning, so turned him back, but was glad to pay close to $10,000 to get him this year.

Comiskey's new park is bounded by Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth streets, Shields and Princeton avenues, and is 600 feet square. The grand stand seats 35,000, and is of steel and concrete construction. Pavilions and two bleachers will seat 15,000 more, and the conveniences will include refreshment stands, telephone booths, garages, promenades and soft drink fountain.

Mutt Loses but Digs Up Again

You can't keep a good sport in the hay. Rose Queen ran in the ruck yesterday for Mutt to the tune of 40 soft shell crabs, but he's back again to-day playing the favorite, 20 seeds being his plunge. He's so busy in the New York campaign that he hasn't time to study up the dope, but he'll pick a winner bef long and then watch him show class.

ALUMNI OVAL, Hanover, N. H., Oct. 30.—Holy Cross was confident of repeating last year's feat of scoring on Dartmouth when they faced each other for the first kickoff in to-day's big game here. The Green hadn't been scored upon and she could be counted on to play her hardest in order to keep her season's slate clean.

Dartmouth put her strongest combination possible on the field, and Captain Clarke Tobin declared before the hostilities began that he believed his boys would win by a comfortable margin and that their goal line would not be crossed.

It was a typical football day. There was just enough tang to the air to compel one to wear an overcoat, but it was just the kind of weather to permit one to thoroughly enjoy the gridiron sport, especially an interesting one like to-day's contest promised to be.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

It is rather amusing to the many friends of T. A. Ashley and C. E. Eaton, two very popular members of the Allston Golf Club, when they get together and talk over their game of golf. Each is positively certain that he has it on the other in several different ways, and to hear these two either collectively or individually tell how they were always the winners in the different contests that brought them together, is to say the least very interesting. There was some talk recently of matching these two players for a bout on the links, and it is certain if the details covering the management of these two men could be arranged that a good-sized gallery would turn out to see the contest.

It seems that Wollaston is in some way connected with left-handed golf and left-handed players. Here are some left-handed happenings that occur to me now. The new course was practically laid out under the personal supervision of D. E. Little, a left-handed player. R. S. Evans, a left-handed player from Brae-Burn, won the spring open amateur meeting. The course record is held by a left hander, Claude M. Hart, the president of the Wollaston Club, who tied for low score in the quite recent Fall tourney. Webb Thayer of Worcester won one of the prizes offered in the "Wright" tournament, as George Wright did the inviting. Last year this reunion was held on the birthday of one of its pioneer members. Samuel Macdonald was so good at other sports that he decided when he took up golf to play left handed to give the other fellows a show, and he probably has cups enough at home for various sports to prove that this is right and not left, as it might seem.

To-day when Vesper and the Country Club get together in the final for the sectional team match trophies offered by the Massachusetts Golf Association some fine golf and good, close, interesting matches should be seen over the Woodland course. Woodland is neutral, and what would be finer to follow than Hylan vs. Whittemore over this pretty links.

EVERETT HIGH SCHOOL FIELD, Oct. 30.—Everett's big football game of the year was on to-day, when the Everett and Malden high school elevens met on the new athletic grounds and several thousand partisans turned out to see the game, which was the first in seven years between the two rivals in Everett.

With perfect weather conditions and with the teams evenly matched in weight and age and carefully groomed for the Suburban League contest by Coaches Cuddy and O'Donnell, the teams showed about equal strength when they came on the gridiron for preliminary practice. Both teams showed a snap and dash in their practice work, which forecasted a hard game.

Everett was a strong favorite before the game and was heavily backed by her supporters, but on the Malden side were many who were confident that Coach Cuddy's charges were the better, and those who have witnessed the final work of the Malden team felt sure that a few surprises would be pulled off which would turn the tide and enable Malden to repeat last year's win over the Everett team.

Everett High had not defeated Malden since 1903, and the thousands of rooters of the home team pulled hard to turn the tide of defeat and start a winning run.

TUFTS OVAL, Medford, Oct. 30.—One of the largest crowds that has ever seen Tufts play was on hand this afternoon when the team lined up against the speedy Springfield Training School. It was the third time in their history that the two elevens had met, and there was much speculation as to whether the local players would score their third straight victory over the mid-staters.

Before the contest Tufts was a slight favorite in the betting, although their record this season wasn't nearly as good as that of their rivals, who had won three out of four games, while the Medford pigskin chasers could only land one out of four.

However, Tufts made its best showing of the season against Maine last Saturday, and it was their improvement in this game that led their followers to be confident of a victory to-day. Tufts was also strengthened by the presence of four veterans, who had been out because of backwardness in studies. They were Costanza, Wallace, Merrill and Dunn.

HORSE NEWS TRACK GOSSIP

Lady Jones (2:07¼) came back from her vacation at the matinees and headed a summary over The Harvester, the latter's first defeat.

The Abbe (3) (2:10½) will be tried at the pace next year, and has been sent to Ed Geers to train.

The well known Middle West trainer Ed Allen is very ill at his home with typhoid fever.

Will and Sam Caton, who have spent the past two months in this country on a visit, have sailed for Russia.

General Watts (3) (2:06¾) was set down for a fast quarter at Lexington and stopped the watches in 28¼ seconds.

The meeting at Phoenix, November 8 to 13, will ring down the curtain for 1909. It promises to be a good meeting from this distance.

The stable of Tommy Murphy tops the list of money winners this season with $68,000 to its credit. Lon McDonald's pulled down $48,000 and Ed Geers' $40,000.

The former Oregon gelding Donax (2:07¼) is now owned by M. J. Keegan of South Chicago, who purchased him on seeing him pace the Wheaton, Ill., track in 2:05¼.

It is intimated that the mare Symbol Maid, that got a record this season out in Kansas of 2:10½, and suspected of not being as represented, is none other than Mary Laidley (2:07¼).

Safe Guard, that won a good race and got a record of 2:11½, is reported as being but four years old.

BROADWAY ATHLETIC FIELD, Somerville, Oct. 30.—Although the crowd was not nearly as large as witnessed the game here last Saturday afternoon, when Waltham High was the opponent, still an outpouring of unusually large proportions was on hand this afternoon when Somerville High met Dorchester High in the first Interscholastic League game of the season.

Somerville High went into the game with the confidence born of a knowledge that they physically overpowered their adversaries, and their admirers didn't have the least doubt that they would win by a score of at least 22 to 0. However, the Dorchester boys were gritty and resolved to put up a stubborn defence against the heavier local lads.

CORNELL FOOTBALL FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Local football followers looked for one of the closest games of the season this afternoon when Cornell clashed with the Williams eleven. It was a good opportunity for the home boys to get a line on how they may expect to fare with Harvard when they meet that team at Cambridge next Saturday, as the Williamstown aggregation came mighty near beating the Crimson earlier in the season, only losing by a score of 8 to 6, a touchdown doing the trick. The Ithacans were sure that if they won by a larger margin their chances of giving Harvard a hard rub next Saturday were exceedingly good.

DOOIN'S SHIN GUARDS DESIGNED BY AN EXPERT

The real armor for the ball player has come at last.

Incidentally the introducing of this innovation sets at rest the yarn of the retirement of one of the best-known athletes now before the public.

It's from Philadelphia that the story comes that Charlie Dooin, the clever backstop of the Quakers, has had a well-known armor plate expert connected with Cramp's shipyards design for him a pair of shin guards that will throw off the heaviest missiles that can be hurled at a catcher from the shoes of a base runner or the fist of a pitcher.

These new protectors are made of the thinnest steel, so finely tempered and yet so tough that their weight will be insignificant, while their power of resistance will be unlimited, so far as base ball uses are concerned.

The fact that Dooin has decided to have these shin saviors made indicates that he will be back on the catching job again next season, thus retaining for the National League the backstopping supremacy of the world.

When Larry McLean, the Reds' big catcher, heard that Dooin would be armored next year, he asserted: "I'll have to look into this battleship stunt of Dooin's. If I had had something of the kind on when I was bumped I wouldn't have spent so much time in bed during the Summer months.

"It was funny about the accident," mused McLean. "I had Thomas so far on that throw to the plate that I had no idea he'd do anything but surrender peaceably. So I took my eye off him for a moment to see if I could make a play at second after I had tagged him. But during that moment off my guard all the damage was done. I can't understand to this day why Thomas ran into me, when there wasn't a chance for him, or how he, such a little fellow, could put it all over me. But he did, all right, and made a good job of it, too."

The fact that seven games for the world's championship drew more than $188,000 in receipts is further evidence that no other outdoor sport has such a hold on the public. When racing was booming in New York State, however, there were days when the receipts for a single afternoon reached the fifty-thousand-dollar mark, but with the turf embarrassed baseball now has the call.

* * *

Arthur Irwin, who studies baseball closely, says the Detroits lost the world's championship because the Pittsburgs made a dead set for Cobb and Crawford. The Pirates were foxy enough to realize that Cobb and Crawford were dangerous with men on bases. Fred Clarke therefore instructed the Pittsburg pitchers to take care of these men by either walking them or refraining from handing up balls they could hit. This policy was adhered to at all times, so that Crawford and Cobb were of little assistance when hits meant runs. It was clever business and showed excellent headwork. Adam

Hugh Duffy will have absolute charge of the Chicago White Sox. Sullivan, manager to the close of the present season, will no doubt continue with the nine, as the best of feeling is said to exist between Billy and Comiskey. It was only at Comiskey's earnest solicitation that Sullivan stuck to his managerial job until the close of the Summer, but Comiskey refused to listen to him, and Sullivan went back, but with the distinct understanding that he should be relieved at the close of the season. It is possible, however, that Sullivan may be ready to quit the game altogether, as he has money invested with Fielder Jones in timber land in the West.

BOSTON AMERICAN'S DOUBLE

Mothers Are to Blame
AS THE TWIG IS BENT

By DOROTHY DIX

A SCARCELY grown boy was recently put to death in the electric chair for murdering his mother.

The excuse the lad gave for his crime was that his mother had not done her duty by him. He said that she was responsible for the jailbird that he had become; that she had never loved him nor shown him any tenderness nor care, but had thrust him out on the street to play and live when he was a mere baby, and that when he fell into bad company and was guilty of petty misdemeanors she had him committed to a reformatory.

"She never gave me any chance," he said. "She kept me locked up in reformatories where she never came to see me, and I got to thinking that she was responsible for what I was, and so, as soon as I got out I went and killed her."

This is a terrible arraignment of a mother, but who shall say that it is not just? Perhaps no criminal ever stands before the bar, no weakling lags behind in the race of life, no unsuccessful man bemoans his failure, who could not, with this poor boy, lay their misfortunes at their mother's door and say with him, "It is your fault. You never gave me a chance."

Mothers Are Accessories

Happily, not many women sin against their children through lack of love, but it is the strange province of love that it can be crueller than hate sometimes, and many a mother who would die for her children does them a more terrible wrong than malignity itself could invent. It is the devotion that is too blind to see a child's faults, too tender to correct them, that sows the wind which many a man or woman reaps in the whirlwind.

It has been my professional duty to write the story of many murder trials and to interview many criminals. I have listened to the evidence told on witness stands, and talked familiarly in prisons with men and women whose hands were red with blood, with boys who had robbed their employers, and girls who had gone astray, and I have yet to meet the first criminal whose mother was not more or less responsible for his or her crime. It was the mother's failure, the mother's weakness that was behind what the man or woman had done.

This is a hard saying, but it is a true one. When a man or woman commits a crime it is the custom for the public to burst into tears of sympathy for the poor old mother, but if justice were done the mother would stand beside the criminal in the dock, indicted as accessory before the crime.

When you come down to bedrock practically all the crime and misery in the world are caused by just three things—temper, lack of self-control and selfishness. It is absolutely possible for any mother to eradicate these faults in her children, and when she is too weak and lazy, or too tender to do it, or even to make an attempt to do it, then she is logically responsible for whatever that child does or becomes.

Humoring a Pretty Rage

Why do men murder? Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they do it in a rage. There came a moment when somebody thwarted their imperious wills or balked them in their desires, and before they knew it they had taken a fellow creature's life.

But years and years before this happened there had been a little boy with a fierce temper, who howled, and shrieked, and bit, and kicked, and fought, every time he was denied anything he wanted, and his mother let him howl, and shriek, and bite, and kick, because she loved him too much to correct him.

It was also easier to let him give way to his wild rage than it was to struggle with him, and make him behave himself, so she bemoaned the fact of Johnnie's temper, and never raised a hand to stay him on the path that led to murder.

Mothers Are to Blame

Look at the unsuccessful man. What makes him so? Lack of purpose, lack of determination, lack of plain grit to go on and do a thing after he got tired of it and the novelty of it wore off. Whose fault is it? The mother's.

The boy who doesn't like his teacher, and is allowed to wander from school to school, the boy who tires of every task and gives it up half done, the boy who never keeps a job because he always thinks he's imposed upon by his employer, makes the man who is a foredoomed failure from the beginning.

And his mother made him. She could have made him go back to school and behave himself. She could have held him at his tasks, and even his play, in a grip of steel, until his weak, vacillating charcter hardened into form.

Every woman who is not teaching her children to do right because it is right and their duty is raising up men and women who will have a right to curse the mother who bore them for their failures in life.

It is a cruel truth that the mothers are responsible for most of the crimes committed in the world. If, for only one generation, women would do their duty by their children we could pull down our jails and dismiss our police force.

The Stevedore and the Girl

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

SOLID ROCK
I WONDER IF SHE'S LOOKING NOW!
HUH! ANY DERRICK CAN DO THAT!

BILL BODGER was a stevedore who worked upon a dock,
And loaded stately white-sailed ships with bricks and sand and rock,
But heavy as his duties were his heart was heavier still,
For Admiralda Irma Ames had only frowns for Bill.

Miss Admiralda Irma Ames was young and passing fair;
She loved with all her gentle heart the dashing second mate
Who bossed the vessel into which Bill Bodger wheeled the freight.

The second mate was undersized; the second mate was young;
But, ah! he had what Bill had not, a soft, persuasive tongue.
And you, who haply some day hope a lady's heart to reach,

All Bill could do to prove his love was lift whole tons of rock.
But while he did these prodigies of strength the second mate
Would smile upon the lady in a way that roused his hate.

But, oh! to all who will but wait revenge will come some day—
And Bill, brave hero that he was, observed he couldn't swim,
And with a rock beneath each arm, dived in to rescue him.

Perhaps you think the lady's heart was touched with pity straight,
And that she wedded noble Bill and shook the second mate.
You're wrong. She sought her Uncle Jake, the foreman of the docks,

The Greatest Puzzle
HIS BEST TOPIC—WOMAN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I HAVE been reading the letters of a famous sculptor.

In speaking of the happy hours spent with a congenial friend, he says: "We talked of everything under the sun: Art, letters, statecraft and, when all else failed, we fell back on that everlasting topic of interest—woman. We talked of her goodness, her badness, her beauty, her charm, her wit. It was a topic that never failed to interest and perplex."

Don't you love to listen to two men when they are talking earnestly. I do, whether the subject be art, politics or business. When they discuss woman, it is more exciting than the most thrilling play or novel.

They always talk about her as though they absolutely understood her, and yet when they talk to her they say, in a tone of exasperation (as though she were to blame): "Well, you women are a queer lot; I'm sure no man can understand you."

Now, if man can't understand woman it most certainly is not her fault, but his. He is very fond of telling her how foolish she is and how inconsistent and shallow.

Woman Generally Understands

If he knows so much about her why does he fail to understand her. The average wife understands her husband thoroughly after she has lived five years with him, but I doubt if the average husband understands his wife after fifty years of married life.

The wife comes by her understanding through her woman's desire to please. She makes a study of his faults and virtues so that she may know what pitfalls to avoid.

She wants her home to be happy, and she knows that unless she pleases her husband it won't be.

You quickly understand the person whom you are daily striving to please. No man, no matter how good a husband he may be, spends much time in the study of his wife's happiness.

He gives her a good home, is generous as far as his means allow, honors her above other women, is kind to her, and loves her, but how much time does spend in catering to her happiness.

Man loves to talk about woman as though she were a strange, restless creature, always striving for the unattainable.

Man's Idea of Woman

In nine cases out of ten when you find a restless, unhappy woman, she is unhappy because some man has made her so.

Think over all the unhappy girls and women you know and see if some man is not the source of the trouble.

Perhaps you are unhappy yourself, and if so, is not some man to blame?

It would be much better if man spent less time in discussing woman's complexities and more time trying to understand her.

It sounds so silly to say, "I don't understand women."

He never will understand her as long as he treats her as a plaything, to be petted and indulged, but not looked upon as an equal.

You know how it is yourself; two men may be talking earnestly, and the minute a woman joins them their conversation takes a lighter strain. If she gives her opinion they listen to it in condescending amusement.

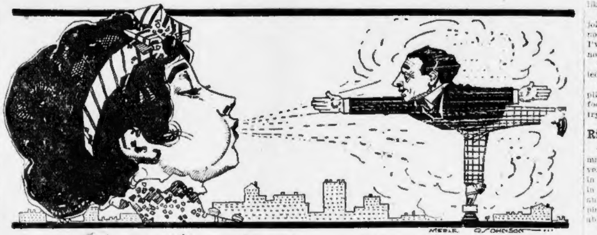
"She wants to vote," they cry laughingly, "this funny bunch of perplexities, woman. But we must not let her. We must keep her in her proper place, and pet her and give her all the pretty things she wants—and keep right on failing to understand her."

Bill Clerk Discourses on His Mighty Mind—By Kennett Harris



The Bill Clerk was a weather vane that pointed as the wind from a certain quarter blew

"I DON'T say one thing one minute and then turn right around and say something altogether different," declared the bill clerk.

"Oh, don't be so hard on yourself, Johnny," protested the cashier. "I know there's a certain sameness about your conversation, as a general thing—a paucity of ideas, as it were; a monotony of viewpoint and a repetition that is characteristic of the unformed intellect; but you do occasionally vary the subject of your remarks. As to turning around"——

"Cheese it," said the bill clerk. "You know what I mean all right. You're just trying to be funny. I don't say I'll do a certain thing one minute and then change my mind and conclude that I'll do the opposite. When I make up my mind it stays made."

"It doesn't take you long to make it up, either, does it?" said the cashier.

"No, it doesn't," replied the bill clerk, and then incautiously asked why.

"It didn't seem to me as if it would," explained the cashier. "I was considering the depth and the breadth of it. It naturally wouldn't take long."

"It's Mainly Stagnation"

"It's all right about that," retorted the bill clerk. "I don't wear a six-and-three-quarter hat like some smart gentlemen I know, anyway. I guess I've got the average amount of gray matter. I've got enough to size you up. If I could buy you for what you're worth and sell you for what you'd call a fair price, I'd buy a steam yacht to-morrow."

"You don't mean that, Johnny," said the cashier, gently. "I feel sure that those are not your true sentiments. When you are calmer, you will regret having spoken in that unkind manner.

"If I have said aught to wound your sensitive nature, I beg your forgiveness, my boy; but in any case you should not hurl bricks at your friend who may have simply failed to catch the drift of your observation. If you had waited, you would have found that in the main I agreed with you."

"As to what?" asked the bill clerk, suspiciously.

"As to your mental stability—not to say stagnation," replied the cashier. "Not to say stagnation, mind you. I don't want you to let your angry passions rise again. You mean to deprecate the inconstancy of some people, their mutability, their fickleness, their uncertainty, and to offer as a strong contrast and shining example your own firmness of purpose or opinion. That's it, isn't it, Johnny?"

"Well, I'm not a blooming weathercock," said the bill clerk.

"Certainly not," agreed the cashier, amiably. "You inform yourself thoroughly and deliberately first, and then you settle upon a certain course and take it. You're not going to be blown out of it by every adverse breath, either—what?"

"Exactly," said the cashier. "Before forming an opinion you carefully weigh all the pros and cons, and after you've formed it you hold to it. Yes? No?"

"Sure," replied the bill clerk.

"I thought so," said the cashier. "You're cast iron, you are. They may break you, but they can't bend you. Nothing waxy about you. The virgin pages of your mentality are not susceptible to erasure. Anything written on them is written for keeps."

"You're talking now," said the bill clerk, approvingly.

"Circumstances may change, but not you," the cashier went on. "Evidence may be produced, but that won't move you a hair's breadth. Reason may be advanced and logic applied, but they won't alter your opinion with trifles like that. You stand like the rock-ribbed, everlasting hills.

"It's going to take blasting powder to jolt you. Oh, I know your steadfastness, not to say mulishness, all right, all right. I've tried to pound sense into you too often not to know it."

"Say, what's the matter with you?" queried the bill clerk, in some surprise.

Ring In the Young Lady

"I've discovered that what's right to-day may be dead wrong to-morrow, and vice versa, and what's quite the proper caper in Dan may be the worst kind of a break in Beersheba; consequently what I think and what I do are according to time and place. But that's because I'm a reasonable being.

"Who said anything about any young lady?" asked the bill clerk.

"Nobody," answered the cashier. "I'm a mind reader, that's all. And then if you'll recollect, she only said that 'maybe' she would give you a lock of her hair. She didn't promise absolutely.

"She said that perhaps she'd keep some dances for you. She'd see. That wasn't binding on her. She told you she wouldn't have anything more to do with Jones, she added, any more than she could help; so you've no right to reproach her."

"I must have come pretty close this time, then," said the cashier.

The Trouble

Mag sure has got an awful rind.
Noive food ain't what she's needin'.
She t'inks I'm glad to trot behind,
If she jest does the leadin',
She's got the idee I'm a mutt
Wit' brains dat sorter scatter,
I'd show her she's mistooken, but—
I guess dat's what's de matter.

Mag seems to t'ink dat when she chirps
I've gotter come a runnin'
Like one o' dese fat, fuzzy purps
Some dames call sweet an' cunnin'.
She figgers I won't call her bluff,
I'd fool de girlie sure enough,
But dat's jest what's de matter.

Mag hasn't got a sort o'doubt
But she's de livin' wonder,
An' has de udders faded out,
A poifeck queen, by t'under!
She t'inks she's smart as she kin be,
Knows all de proper patter,
She t'inks she's got a cinch on me
An'—dat's jest what's de matter.

SHERLOCK HOLMES, JR.

A TEACHER in a midland town in England is noted for his patriotic fervor. One day in class while in a particularly uplifted mood he turned to one of his pupils, an average English boy of twelve.

"Now, Tommy," said he, "tell us what you would think if you saw the union jack waving proudly over the field of battle."

"I should think," replied Tommy, "that the wind was blowing."

Gibelin Scores a Point.

"HAVE you anything else to report?" asked the Judge.

Gibelin chuckled harshly. "I have kept the most important thing for the last. I'm afraid it will annoy my distinguished colleague even more than the loss of the leather fragments."

"Don't waste your sympathy," retorted Coquenil.

Gibelin gave a little snort of defiance. "I certainly won't, I only mean that your debut in this case hasn't been exactly—er, ha!—well, not exactly brilliant."

The Owner of the Pistol

Coquenil started. "The owner of the pistol we found in the courtyard?"

"Precisely. I should tell you, also, that the balls from that pistol are identical with the ball extracted from the body, the autopsy proves it, so Dr. Joubert says. And this pistol belongs in a leather holster that I found in Mr. Kittredge's room. Dr. Joubert, let me take the pistol for verification and—there, you can see for yourselves."

With this he produced the holster, and the pistol and laid them before the judge. There was no doubt about it, the two objects belonged together, various worn places corresponded and the weapon fitted in its case.

"Besides," continued Gibelin, "the chambermaid identifies this pistol as the property of the American. He always kept it in a certain drawer, she noticed it there a few days ago, but yesterday it was gone, and the holster was empty."

"It looks bad," muttered the judge.

"In the old school," sneered Gibelin, "we are not always trying to solve problems in difficult ways, we don't reject a solution merely because it's easy; if the truth lies straight before your nose, why, we see it."

"My dear sir," retorted Coquenil angrily, "if what you think the truth turns out to be the truth, then you ought to be in charge of this case and I'm a fool."

"Granted," smiled the other.

"Come, come, gentlemen," interrupted the judge. Then, abruptly, to Gibelin: "Did you see about his boots?"

"No; I thought you would send to the prison and get the pair he wore last night."

"How do you know he didn't change his boots when he burned the letters? Go back to his hotel and see if they noticed a muddy pair in his room this morning. Bring me whatever boots of his you find. Also stop at the depot and get the pair he had on when arrested. Be quick!"

"I will," answered Gibelin, and he went out, pausing at the door to salute M. Paul mockingly.

"Ill-tempered brute!" said Hauteville. "I will see that he has nothing more to do with this case." Then he touched an electric bell.

"That American, Kittredge, who was brought in last night?" he said to the clerk. "Was he put in a cell?"

"No, sir, he's in with the other prisoners."

"Ah! Have him brought over here in about an hour for the preliminary examination. Make out his commitment papers for the Sante. He is to be au secret."

"Yes, sir," the clerk bowed and withdrew.

Still Thinks Him Innocent.

"It's easier to think him innocent than guilty," answered the detective.

"How so?"

"If he is guilty we must grant him an extraordinary double personality. The amiable lover becomes a desperate criminal able to conceive and carry out the most intricate murder of our time. I don't believe it. If he is guilty, he must have had the key to the alleyway door. How did he get it? He must have known that the 'tall blonde' who had engaged Number Seven would not occupy it. How did he know that? And he must have relations with the man who met me on the Champs Elysees. How could that be? Remember, he's a poor devil of a foreigner living in a Latin Quarter attic. The things isn't reasonable."

"But the pistol?"

The judge nodded. "Of course. I leave that to you. Still, I shall feel better satisfied when we have compared the soles of his boots with the plaster casts of those alleyway footprints."

"So shall I," said Coquenil. "Suppose I see the workman who is finishing the casts," he suggested, "it won't take long, and perhaps I can bring them back with me."

Then, for nearly an hour, the judge buried himself in the details of this case, turning his trained mind, with absorbed concentration, upon the papers at hand, reviewing the evidence, comparing the various reports and opinions, and, in the light of clear reason, searching for a plausible theory of the crime. He also began notes of questions that he wished to ask Kittredge, and was deep in these when the clerk entered to inform him that Coquenil and Gibelin had returned.

"Let them come in at once," said Hauteville, and presently the two detectives were again before him.

"Well?" he inquired with a quick glance.

His Boots Fit the Prints

Coquenil was silent, but Gibelin replied exultingly: "We have found a pair of Kittredge's boots that absolutely correspond with the plaster casts of the alleyway footprints. Everything is identical, the shape of the sole, the nails in the heel, the worn places, everything."

The judge turned to Coquenil. "Is this true?"

M. Paul nodded. "It seems to be true."

There was a moment of tense silence and then Hautville said in measured tones:

"It makes a strong chain now. What do you think?"

Coquenil hesitated and then with a frown of perplexity and exasperation he snapped out: "I—I haven't had time to think yet."

To-Day's Best Story

THE impecunious author passed over the manuscript with a faltering hand. The aged, but truthful editor started.

"Er—Mr. Wrightly," he said, with the air of a man who has just become saddled with a great thought, "did you ever hear that Walter Scott received the suggestion of his first successful novel while he was washing his hands?"

How to Get Rid of Catarrh

Those who suffer from catarrh know its miseries. There is no need of this suffering. You can get rid of it by a simple, safe, inexpensive home treatment discovered by Dr. Blosser, who, for over thirty-five years, has been treating catarrh successfully.

His treatment is unlike any other. It is not a spray, douche, salve, cream, or inhaler, but is a more direct and thorough treatment than any of these. It cleans out the head, nose, throat and lungs so that you can again breathe freely and sleep without that stopped-up feeling that all catarrh sufferers have. It heals the diseased mucous membranes and arrests the foul discharge, so that you will not be constantly blowing your nose and spitting, and at the same time it does not poison the system and ruin the stomach, as internal medicines do.

If you want to test this treatment without cost, send your address to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 210 Walton Street, Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you by return mail enough of the medicine to satisfy you that it is all he claims for it as a remedy for catarrh, catarrhal headaches, catarrhal deafness, asthma, bronchitis, colds and all catarrhal complications. He will also send you free an illustrated booklet. Write him immediately.

Advice to the Lovelorn—By Beatrice Fairfax

INVITE HIM TO CALL.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Recently I became acquainted with a young man who invited me to an afternoon outing. I did not accept because of such short acquaintance. He apparently thinks that because I declined that I do not care for him. What should I do, as I do not wish to forfeit his friendship? L. M. S.

SINCE this young man, whom you seem to regard highly, invited you to participate in an afternoon outing, I see no reason why you should not invite him to call. Send him a note telling him you would be pleased to have him call upon you some evening. Your parents will then have opportunity to meet him, and after that perhaps you will wish to accept should he invite you anywhere again.

TELL HER YOU LOVE HER.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man 19 years of age, and am in love with a girl 18 years old, but do not know whether she cares for me or not. I have never said anything to her about love, but she has seemed until recently to reciprocate my feelings. Now she seems to have changed. How can I find out if she loves me. F. J. L.

WRITE to her asking if you may call, then tell her of your affections for her and as her if she cares for you in that way.

BY NO MEANS A FAULT.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I wish you would give me your opinion as to my manner of living. I am a girl, eighteen years old. I attend a private school in the Back Bay. I am full of fun, enjoy my studies, music, and love outdoor sports. I have everything done for me, and have a great many girl friends. I seem to make girl friends wherever I go.

They call me good looking, attractive and pleasing. Possibly you have read my name lately, as to my coming out next year.

The trouble is this. My boy friends are limited in numbers. Several are away at college. I have none to go around with as the other girls have. Some of my girl friends say this is my only fault.

But is this anything against me, Miss Fairfax, my not being popular with the fellows? Am I too one-sided? A SINCERE GIRL.

NO, my sincere young friend, I do not think it a very grievous fault that you should not have a wide circle of young men friends. A young girl still attending school should not worry herself about the attentions of young men. Evidently you are a most attractive young person, and apparently the kind of young men whom you meet do not appeal to you. Until after your coming out, when you will have opportunity to meet many desirable men, you cannot form any just opinion. Perhaps you are such a bluestocking that the young college fellows do not appeal to you, but you will find plenty to admire your qualities when the time comes.

AN UNENVIABLE POSITION.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About four years ago I started going with a girl whom I liked very much and I know that she also liked me. After going together for two years we had a quarrel and parted. In the meantime I became acquainted with another girl who encouraged me on. Not being able to call at the latter girl's house, I met her the first few times on the street, and after objecting to meeting her in that way she finally introduced me to her mother, who, after we became engaged, objected to me. Now, Miss Fairfax, I have recently met my former sweetheart and we have declared our love for each other again, and she has told me that if I broke the engagement she would gladly go with me. I do not wish to hurt the other girl's feeling. What shall I do? ANXIOUS.

YOUR position is not an enviable one. I do not see how you can deliberately break the engagement if she has given you no cause to do so, and yet I cannot advise you to marry a girl you do not love. Think it well over, and if you decide that you really love the first girl best, go to the second girl like a man and tell her the whole story. If she has any pride she will release you at once.

No End of Smart Events on the Schedule to Keep Fashionables Busy To-day

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

No end of smart events are scheduled for to-day and the fashionables will be kept on the alert from early morning until late at night.

First in importance comes the wedding of pretty Dorothy Dexter and David Osborne at noon at the beautiful country estate of the bride's sister, Mrs. Edward B. Grew in Dover.

Besides the Osborne-Dexter wedding, there is Mrs. Slater's smart hunter's moon dance, which she is giving to-night at her "Pinebank" home in Readville and which will without doubt be the most brilliant event of its kind this year.

Following dancing, which will conclude at midnight, supper will be served. Mrs. Slater is fortunate in the possession of one of the largest and finest ball rooms in the country, but so large is the invitation list that the library is to be thrown open for dancing also.

The Norfolk Hunt Club is coming in for some of the week-end gayety and is to dine en masse at the Wayside Inn, Sudbury. There will be a hunt run earlier in the day and a dance as a grand climax.

◆ ◆ ◆

Any number of Bostonians have gone over to Locust, N. J., for the wedding there to-day of Miss Eleanor Duane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Duane (the latter a Higginson of Boston) and Stanton Whitney.

Mr. Whitney, who is a member of the well known Whitney family of this city, will have among his ushers his two cousins, Charles Handasyde Whitney and Geoffrey Whitney of Milton.

The ceremony takes place at the Protestant Episcopal Church and the reception at "Kilrenan," the Duane country seat, a short distance from the church. Among the bride's six attendants are her sister, Miss Katherine, and her cousin, Miss Vivian Duane.

Debutantes are in their glory to-day at the reception which is being given for their sister-bud, Miss Margaret Titcomb, by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George E. Titcomb, at their home in Concord. The reception is from 3:30 until 6 o'clock, and many of this season's buds have been asked to assist.

◆ ◆ ◆

The patronesses of the affair are Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. George A. Hibbard, Mrs. Frederick Beebe, Mrs. Irving Winslow, Mrs. Granville E. Foss, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Mrs. C. Howard Winslow, Mrs. F. ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Philip Snowden of England sailed for America during the week, probably on October 26. She is expected here about the first of the month. During her stay in Boston she will be the guest of Mrs. George P. Morris of Waverley street, Brookline. When Mrs. Snowden was over here last year she was entertained for a short time by Mrs. Morris.

The president and trustees of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts are planning a reception, which will be given on the ninth of the month, on the occasion of the opening of the new building in the Fenway. The reception will be given in the afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Mrs. William Lindsey and her family are still at South Poland, Maine, where they have been since their arrival from Europe. They went over in May and have been there until quite recently. They have not opened their residence on Bay State road for the season.

◆ ◆ ◆

Lenox fashionables throng the roller skating hall this afternoon, for that diversion is one of the great atractions these days, especially among the younger set. The gallery section will buzz all the afternoon and evening with gossip about the forthcoming dress party with which the Roller Skating Club will wind up the season next Saturday evening.

This party is the most fashionable affair to which the late stayers in the Berkshires are now looking forward, and it promises to be popular and well attended.

Suffragists' Convention Attended by Great Throng

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The women of New York city met in convention at Carnegie Hall to demand "Equal rights." It was the first properly called woman's suffragettes convention.

There were between 2,500 and 3,000 people present, all but a few being women.

The principal action was the adoption of resolutions calling for the appointment of a committee to wait on the Mayor and the legislative charter committee and urge that the following suggestions be incorporated into its recommendations to the Legislature:

One—That the charter be amended so as to require that at least one-third of the members of the board of education be women.

Two—That the charter be amended so as to require that at least three members of the board of Bellevue and allied hospitals be women.

Three—That the charter be amended so as to require that the compensation of teachers, like the compensation of employes in municipal service, be determined in accordance with the title and grade of position and not by the sex of the worker.

Further, that measures be taken to secure amendment of the civil service law of the State to the effect that no citizens shall be excluded from any examination on account of sex, unless it can satisfactorily be shown that such exclusion is rendered necessary by the nature of the work to be done.

And finally that a deputation call upon the Mayor to urge the appointment of women to at least three of the nine vacancies to occur in the board of education on January 1.

Mrs. Mackay was then introduced and read the platform, which was unanimously adopted.

"All men and women are born equally free and independent; that the natural relation of the sexes is of interdependence and co-operation; that self government in the home and State is the right of every normal adult; that governments which impose taxes upon their women citizens without giving them the right or consent exercise a tyranny inconsistent with just government and that the Legislature be called on to submit the proposition of votes for women to popular vote."

LATEST POEM BY WILLIAM WATSON HAS SET ALL ENGLAND GOSSIPING

By William Watson.

(Copyright, 1909, by John Lane Company, London.)

The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue,
The haggard cheek, the hungering eye,
The poisoned words that wildly fly,
The famished face, the fevered hand—
Sneers at the just, contemns the brave
And blackens goodness in its grave.

The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue;
Concerning whom Fame hints at things
Told but in shrugs and whisperings;
Ambitious from her natal hour,

WITH venomed fangs she canot hide,
Who half makes love to you to-day,
To-morrow gives her guest away,
Burnt up within by that strange soul
She cannot slake, or yet control;
Malignant lipp'd, unkind ,unsweet;
Hectic and always overstrung—
The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue,

To think that such as she can mar
Names that among the noblest are!
That hands like hers can touch the springs
That move who knows what men and things!
That on her will their fates have hung!
The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—William Watson's poem, "The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue," has set all England talking. It is regarded as an attack on a famous society leader, formerly connected with "The Souls," an organization that ended in scandal. The poem is published in Watson's latest volume of verse, just out.

The remarkable society known as "The Souls" attracted much attention in England several years ago, although public knowledge of its affairs was always somewhat indefinite. Neither wealth nor position could secure an entree to this most exclusive of clubs. Intellectual brilliance was the test, and among the leading members were Arthur J. Balfour, Mrs. Beerbohm Tree, Lady Granby, Lord Elcho, Margot Tennant, George Wyndham, and Alfred Lyttelton.

Margot Tennant was the third daughter of the late Sir Charles Tennant, who made an enormous fortune in Spanish copper mines and in the manufacture of chemicals. Her home was in Glasgow. She was a friend of the Czar of Russia, as well as most of the notable men of her own country, and Gladstone wrote poetry to her. In 1895 she wedded Herbert Asquith, then forty-three, a widower with five children and a lawyer of small income. He is now Prime Minister of the United Kingdom.

Mr. Watson writes:

In truthful numbers be she sung
The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue,
Concerning whom fate hints at things
Told but in shrugs and whisperings.

Then he proceeds to draw a portrait in words keener than engravers' acids. Neither physically nor morally is the subject spared. The poetic presentiment is of a kind quite unparalleled in modern literature and in many circles Mr. Watson is being severely condemned as having far exceeded the bounds to which it is permissible to go.

Whether Mr. Watson's portrait is true to life or is only envenomed caricature is a question hotly debated. Everybody who knows the lady who is supposed to be the original acknowledges that she has a sharp tongue, and it is surmised that the poet may have experienced its keenness. Another suggestion is that Mr. Watson may ascribe to this particular woman's influence the fact that he has not been the recipient of any of those titular honors which are occasionally awarded by the British government to poets of more or less merit.

TRUE ELOQUENCE.

THE lawyer for the plaintiff had finished his argument, and the counsel for the defence stepped forward to speak. The Judge, new to the bench and young for his position, interrupted him. His eyes were wide open and filled with wonder and admiration for the eloquent plea of the plaintiff.

"Defendant need not speak," he said; "plaintiff wins."

"But, Your Honor," said the attorney for the defendant, "at least let me present my case."

"Well, go ahead," said the Judge wearily.

The lawyer went ahead. When he had finished the Judge gaped in even greater astonishment.

A GOOD SUBSTITUTE

Sentimental wife—I expected to find an intellectual mate in you, but you have starved my mind. I asked you for bread and you gave me a stone.

THE Golden Key to Dreamland!
Give me the golden key
For now 'tis but in Dreamland
I meet those dear to me—

We'll reach the sunny garden
By the apple orchard gate,
Where once a happy May Queen
Reclined in mimic state—

Now saunter by the fish-pools
Fed by the silent stream
Where rainbow trout are lurking
And roach and golden bream.

Shadowed by weeping willows,
Haunt of the shy reed warbler,
Where the grey-winged heron feeds.

By stately feathering beeches
Down by the Lovers' Walk,
Where happened many trystings,
Many a moonlight talk.

Oh! young and lovely faces,
Now with the blessed dead,
I yearn to clasp and greet you,
While idle tears I shed.

Enchanted hours in Dreamland!
Give me the golden key
That I may tryst in Dreamland
With those so dear me.

Good Things to Eat.

Eggs will be selling for sixty cents a dozen by Thanksgiving, the marketmen say, and will probably soar to seventy-five cents a dozen before Easter. "You could buy 'em cheaper than that with Confederate money in war time," said a white-haired veteran dairyman on North Market street yesterday.

The high price is said to have resulted from the large number of small henneries which have given up the ghost before the rising price of grain.

The prediction made during the late Summer that butter would sell for fifty cents a pound in November is now doubted, but the price is mounting surely, if slowly. At present good butter sells as high as forty cents.

The New England apples which have come into the markets this Fall have excited the admiration of the dealers. Those who thought the western fruit would drive the eastern fruits out of the market, and make apple raising in New England as unprofitable as wheat raising, have recanted their opinions.

The eastern fruit now coming into the market is on par with the best that comes from the West, and the sale of western apples is dropping off accordingly.

Fresh poultry is a little cheaper and a little more plentiful than it was earlier in the season. This is believed to be due to the small poultry men killing off their flocks rather than Winter them at the present prices of poultry food.

Last Summer's drouth is responsible for the scarcity of potatoes reported by commission men. It is believed that the local dealers will be importing potatoes before the next crop is ready, the present supply in sight being short of last season's crop by many thousand bushels.

The importation of beans from Spain and Italy continues to increase. A few years ago Bostonians were startled to learn that the domestic supply of beans was short and that they were obliged to look to south Europe for a supply of their favorite food staple.

Since that time nearly every ship from Mediterranean ports that has arrived in Boston has included a large shipment of beans in her cargo.

Importations of cheese have increased greatly for the past few months. They include not only the old staple varieties but many new and strange smelling varieties.

USELESS

"Aha!" exclaimed the seeker. "Can you tell me how I can boss my wife?"

"I can," said the weird sister, "but it will do you but little good. She won't allow you to try it."

LUDLOW MILL STRIKERS SEEK TO ARBITRATE

LUDLOW, Oct. 30.—After a three-hour conference between the committee of six, appointed by the striking employes of the Ludlow Manufacturing Association and Agent Sidney Stevens at which no progress was made the question of calling in the State Board of Arbitration was considered by the strikers. Should they decide to call upon the State Board they will ask that the wage schedule in the Ludlow mills be given special attention because the company maintains that it pays its employes more than any other concern in the bagging business and was obliged to cut the weavers pay to meet competition.

Agent Stevens said that the conference left the situation exactly where it was. He denied a persistent rumor that when the mills are opened on Monday morning the old rate will be restored to the weavers.

James Whitehead, secretary of the Fall River Weavers' Union attended the conference but was unable to do anything for the strikers. Pay day for the strikers passed without the slightest disturbance, the strikers being admitted to the mill yard in small groups where they received checks to present in the paymaster's office.

All were paid up to last Monday, when the strike began. Next Friday they will be paid for the work done on Monday before they went out.

The postoffice was crowded with the Poles who came to send money orders to the old country and several hundred dollars in money orders were sent away. This indicates that the strikers are not beginning to feel the effects of the strike in a financial way as yet and that they will be able to hold out longer than the company predicts.

HOLYOKE MAN LOSES FIGHT FOR $1,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 30.—A judgment written by Presiding Justice Cooper of the Court of Appeals upon the alleged incompetency of Loren Coburn, a hardy old pioneer worth over $1,000,000 in land which he obtained through Spanish grants, reverses a finding by the Superior Court in San Mateo County, adjudging Loren Coburn non compos mentis, and annuls that court's appointment of Carl J. Coburn, a nephew, as guardian. The present judgment is regarded as a crushing defeat for the two nephews, Carl J. Coburn of Pescadero, Cal., and Azro A. Coburn of Holyoke, Mass.

The strike started three days ago against the employment of non-union men in some of the departments.

WESTERN MAINE HAS BIG POTATO CROP

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 30.—Farmers from all parts of Cumberland County report that the potato crop in the County will exceed the crops of past years by many thousands of bushels. Farmers say that the crop is a third larger than ever before. It was thought at one time that the crop in this section of the State would be a failure, but rain came just before the farmers had given up hope of harvesting but half a crop. Never have the potatoes been of better quality there being but little rot in them. Prices are much lower than they were last year on account of the big crops. Farmers to a great extent are holding on to their potatoes waiting for better prices as the price per bushel paid the farmers is in the vicinity of fifty cents. Last year the marketmen were offering seventy-five cents per bushel for the same grade of goods.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY ELECTROCUTION

FORT FAIRFIELD, Me., Oct. 30.—A tragic event took place here, when Edwin Brimer, for some years a resident of this place, committed suicide by electrocuting himself. Fastening a wire clothes line about his person he threw it over the live electric wiring which runs past his home on the Dorsey road, and thus met his death, but a few feet from the door of his home. He was found by two young men on their way home from town on a potato team. The hand of the man was badly burned and other parts of the body were somewhat burned. The body was not moved until the electric current had been turned off, and as Houlton had to be notified, there was some delay.

SQUIRREL HUNTERS TREED BY BULL

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Oct. 30.—If any one hums the toreador song from "Carmen" in the hearing of Edward Gilbraithe and Wilson Baird in the immediate future he will get himself disliked. Gilbraithe and Baird were out hunting squirrels and started to cross the pasture lot of Jeremiah Fullman's farm at Great Notch.

A young and active bull saw them and started a game of tag. A grove of chestnut trees was what they were running for.

Gilbraithe reached a tree first and shinned up, getting just out of reach by the time the bull arrived. Baird got into another tree.

Changing the game to puss-in-the-corner made the bull peevish. He pawed the ground and bellowed, and dared 'em to come down and face him like men. They stayed in the trees seven hours.

BUILDS AIRSHIP TO CROSS CONTINENT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 30.—After sixty odd years of activity in the field of invention Professor Thaddeus S. C. Lowe of Pasadena announces that he is about to complete the labor of his life and give to the world a practical freight-carrying air craft. "I hope before long to be able to start the largest practical airship the world has ever seen on a trip to the Atlantic coast," says Professor Lowe.

SEEKS $5,000 FOR INJURED FINGER

A suit for $5,000 was begun to-day in the Superior Court at Dedham for Miss Natalie B. McFarlane of Bridgeport, Ct., against the New York Central road. An injury to a finger by the closing of a door on a train is the reason for the suit. The young woman claims her finger was badly injured by the closing of a door on a train.

DRIVEN TO DEATH BY FEAR OF KNIFE

UPTON, Oct. 30.—Barnabas C. Rider of Inset, aged nearly eighty-two years, committed suicide at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Whitney, by shooting himself with a revolver. Apparently he had stood in front of a mirror in a bedroom with the door locked when he fired the shot into his head at the right temple. He had dreaded a minor surgical operation and this is thought to have led him to take his life.

SHE USED FLATIRON AS AID TO SUICIDE

GREENWICH, N. Y., Oct. 30.—While despondent, Mrs. Marie G. Baitle, matron of the Washington County Home for Aged Women, tied a flatiron to her neck with a cord and leaped into a creek. Her body was found in three feet of water.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

It is believed that the advance in the market means that there has been a definite turn in sentiment and that it is not merely a rally. But the list has advanced sharply and a reaction would be perfectly natural.

$ $ $

Bullish activity in the commodity markets, conducted simultaneously with the bull movement in securities, led some conservative interests to believe that the easier tendency of money, which was the cause of both, could not continue in the face of such a stimulation of demand as the outburst of speculation seemed likely to produce.

$ $ $

The probable character of the bank statement is more discussed than perhaps any other factor, and it is the prevailing expectation that should the banks succeed in showing a further strengthening of their surplus reserves, the effect upon the stock market would be decidedly stimulating.

$ $ $

Even if money should not for the present show any great tendency towards ease, the factor is not likely henceforth to be adverse in the same degree that it was a few weeks ago in its relation to the stock market.

$ $ $

It is only a question of how easy money is whether Southern Pacific gets 7 per cent and New York Central 6 per cent. at the next declaration. Pennsylvania may increase its dividend also and will certainly give valuable rights.

$ $ $

Many conservative bankers objected seriously to the activity of Amalgamated Copper, but it seems that for once there is some legitimate speculative excuse at least for action of this security.

$ $ $

Amalgamated is so widely scattered that the average holding of the stock is under 100 shares. There is a short interest for the account of rich men that already shows such large losses it is on the verge of running for power. In addition to this, the leading copper producers have for more than a year been so far apart that they were even personal enemies. Men who will not speak as they pass by cannot do business together. J. P. Morgan & Co. have taken the matter in hand and whipped everybody into line. The result is an era of good feeling among copper producers and they expect this in a short time to be reflected in a better market for copper metal.

$ $ $

A vast surplus of unconsumed copper metal lies in the foundries of consumers and the warehouses of producers. But this, as has been often stated in this column, is a bull argument on the general stock market and not necessarily a bear argument on first-class copper stocks. If the Amalgamated should get some of the good porphyry coppers it could become a great copper company itself. The speculative situation in Amalgamated and the investment situation in the porphyries present an opportunity for considerable activity in the various shares involved. Amalgamated is far too high on its merits, built under present circumstances it could advance without endangering the market.

$ $ $

The fact that many millions of the new capital to be raised by railroads will be used for electrifying mountain divisions and for paying for equipment is an argument in favor of the copper shares. Great quantities of copper must be used for these purposes. But for every pound of copper used in electrifying a railroad, six pounds of iron or steel must be used. Therefore it is even a greater argument in favor of higher prices for steel. The prices of steel are being advanced again and there is talk of a movement of from $2 to $4 a ton higher by the independents and the trust.

$ $ $

An expert on Steel stock, who has usually been very correct in the past, said that from talks with directors of the trust he felt safe in estimating an increase of 750,000 tons monthly in unfilled orders up to the end of the year. This will give the trust about seven millions of unfilled orders for a certainty at the end of the December quarter.

$ $ $

Undoubtedly the leading financial interests hold the market under perfect control. There is comparatively little investment liquidation, for the reason that it is generally recognized that values are increasing.

$ $ $

On the other hand, the firmer position of money recently has forced or induced much speculative liquidation and short selling which naturally have combined to strengthen the technical position.

SEEN THE PABLO? NEW STORM COAT

The Pablo is the name of a new storm coat which is offered at an unusually low price of $9.90 by the F. Gray Company, corner of Washington and Hanover streets. This garment is made from Scotch Angolas in fancy stripes and is cut with full military shoulders. It is fifty-two inches long with auto collar and sleeve cuffs, and the Gray Company declares that it is equal in value to storm coats offered at twice that price in many other places.

BOY OF 12 DUG HIS OWN MOTHER'S GRAVE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 30.—Too poor to pay for the work, Richard Swinford, twelve, dug his mother's grave. While filling it after the body had been placed in it the boy collapsed into the excavation.

DINNER FOR 5,000 IN BIG DRY DOCK

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—Five thousand persons are to dine in the biggest floating dry dock in the world next Tuesday. They are delegates to the deep waterways convention. The huge dock will be lowered to the water's edge for the tables.

NORTH DAKOTA PROVES SPEEDY

The battleship North Dakota is in drydock at the Navy Yard after her builder's trial off Provincetown, where, with a foul bottom, she attained a speed of 10.25 knots an hour. She will leave here Monday for her government trials off Rockland.

End of the campaign. Who will be elected, Vahey or Draper, Pelletier or Hill? The Sunday American will sum up both sides, Republican and Democratic, and give estimates of the majorities of the winners. Every voter will want the Sunday American to know who is going to be elected.

COPPER STOCK DISAPPOINTING

STATE STREET, Oct. 30.—Closing—Copper shares were a bit disappointing this forenoon after yesterday's display of buoyancy. This was natural enough in view of the fact that it is the last day of the week, followed by a stock market holiday next Tuesday, election day.

Prices opened off from last night's closing, although in many cases recovery followed while some rose to still higher levels. Amalgamated after opening at 86½, fell to 86, but subsequently recovered to 86¾, steel common yielded to 90, with partial recovery from this.

There is nothing new to report on the proposed copper combination so that with the profit taking less interest was manifested in price movements in general. American Zinc made a new high for the present movement, touching 37. Arizona Commercial also stiffened, reaching 46. North Butte was heavy and broke a point to 59¾.

There was a good volume of business on the curb. Cumberland & Ely and First National and Ohio Copper advanced fractionally. Union Copper was active and Ely Consolidated was firm.

TO GIVE AWAY BIG NEW YORK ESTATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Miss Louise McAllister, daughter of the late Ward McAllister social arbiter of the "Four Hundred" twenty years ago, has fallen heir to a fortune of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. The estate was left by her second cousin, Henry G. Gibbons of Philadelphia and Chicago, with the explanation that she would be able to dispose of it much more wisely than he.

Although there are no clauses in the will stipulating how she shall use the money, a close friend said that Miss McAllister would undoubtedly devote every cent to charity.

"Already a large part of the fortune left by her grandfather, Matthew Hall McAllister, has been used in unostentatious charity," declared this friend. "There are scores of women in this city and in cities of the South with whom Miss McAllister has family affiliations, who have been put on their feet through her quiet assistance. She rarely gave to organizations, believing rather in the old fashioned neighborly benevolence."

LIQUOR HABIT IS BUMPED BY BUDGET

LONDON, Oct. 30.—After a debate of seventy days the House of Commons has completed the report stage of the budget bill, which is now ready to go to the House of Lords. There yet remains the formal third reading of the bill by the House of Commons. Austen Chamberlain will move its rejection, and probably three days will be occupied in debating this motion.

Mr. Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, referring to the slump in the revenue from spirits in consequence of the new increased duty, said that not more than £800,000 could be expected now instead of £1,500,000. Not only were thousands of people drinking less since the liquor duties were raised, but some had stopped drinking altogether.

TAFT'S SON WILL WATCH AT POLLS

LUDLOW MILL STRIKERS SEEK TO ARBITRATE

LUDLOW, Oct. 30.—After a three-hour conference between the committee of six, appointed by the striking employes of the Ludlow Manufacturing Association and Agent Sidney Stevens at which no progress was made the question of calling in the State Board of Arbitration was considered by the strikers. Should they decide to call upon the State Board they will ask that the wage schedule in the Ludlow mills be given special attention because the company maintains that it pays its employes more than any other concern in the bagging business and was obliged to cut the weavers pay to meet competition.

Agent Stevens said that the conference left the situation exactly where it was. He denied a persistent rumor that when the mills are opened on Monday morning the old rate will be restored to the weavers.

James Whitehead, secretary of the Fall River Weavers' Union attended the conference but was unable to do anything for the strikers. Pay day for the strikers passed without the slightest disturbance, the strikers being admitted to the mill yard in small groups where they received checks to present to the paymaster's office.

All were paid up to last Monday, when the strike began. Next Friday they will be paid for the work done on Monday before they went out.

The postoffice was crowded with the Poles who came to send money orders to the old country and several hundred dollars in money orders were sent away. This indicates that the strikers are not beginning to feel the effects of the strike in a financial way as yet and that they will be able to hold out longer than the company predicts.

HOLYOKE MAN LOSES FIGHT FOR $1,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 30.—A judgment written by Presiding Justice Cooper of the Court of Appeals upon the alleged incompetency of Loren Coburn, a hardy old pioneer worth over $1,000,000 in land which he obtained through Spanish grants, reverses a finding by the Superior Court in San Mateo County, adjudging Loren Coburn non compos mentis, and annuls that court's appointment of Carl J. Coburn, a nephew, as guardian. The present judgment is regarded as a crushing defeat for the two nephews, Carl J. Coburn of Pescadero, Cal., and Azro A. Coburn of Holyoke, Mass.

UPHOLSTERERS SURE OF WINNING STRIKE

With every skilled workman of the craft in Greater Boston a good-standing member of the union, the officers of Upholsterers' Union No. 53 of this city, declare that ultimate victory in their present strike is sure to follow, although no overtures for a settlement of the existing trouble has been received as yet from the other side.

The strike started three days ago against the employment of non-union men in some of the departments.

WESTERN MAINE HAS BIG POTATO CROP

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 30.—Farmers from all parts of Cumberland County report that the potato crop in the County will exceed the crops of past years by many thousands of bushels. Farmers say that the crop is a third larger than ever before. It was thought at one time that the crop in this section of the State would be a failure, but rain came just before the farmers had given up hope of harvesting but half a crop. Never have the potatoes been of better quality there being but little rot in them. Prices are much lower than they were last year on account of the big crops. Farmers to a great extent are holding on to their potatoes waiting for better prices as the price per bushel paid the farmers is in the vicinity of fifty cents. Last year the marketmen were offering seventy-five cents per bushel for the same grade of goods.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY ELECTROCUTION

FORT FAIRFIELD, Me., Oct. 30.—A tragic event took place here, when Edwin Brimer, for some years a resident of this place, committed suicide by electrocuting himself. Fastening a wire clothes line about his person he threw it over the live electric wiring which runs past his home on the Horsey road, and thus met his death, but a few feet from the door of his home. He was found by two young men on their way home from town on a potato team. The hand of the man was badly burned and other parts of the body were somewhat burned. The body was not moved until the electric current had been turned off, and as Houlton had to be notified, there was some delay.

SQUIRREL HUNTERS TREED BY BULL

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Oct. 30.—If any one hums the toreador song from "Carmen" in the hearing of Edward Gilbraithe and Wilson Baird in the immediate future he will get himself disliked. Gilbraithe and Baird were out hunting squirrels and started to cross the pasture lot of Jeremiah Uhlmann's farm at Great Notch.

A young and active bull saw them and [illegible] a grove of chestnut trees was what they were running for. Gilbraithe reached a tree first and shinned up, getting just out of reach by the time the bull arrived. Baird got into another tree.

Changing the game to puss-in-the-corner made the bull peevish. He pawed the ground and bellowed, and dared 'em to come down and face him like men. They stayed in the trees seven hours.

BUILDS AIRSHIP TO CROSS CONTINENT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 30.—After sixty odd years of activity in the field of invention Professor Thaddeus S. C. Lowe of Pasadena announces that he is about to complete the labor of his life and give to the world a practical freight-carrying air craft. "I hope before long to be able to start the largest practical airship the world has ever seen on a trip to the Atlantic coast," says Professor Lowe.

SEEKS $5,000 FOR INJURED FINGER

A suit for $5,000 was begun to-day in the Superior Court at Dedham for Miss Natalie B. McFarlane of Bridgeport, Ct., against the New York Central road. An injury to a finger by the closing of a door on a train is the reason for the suit. The young woman claims her finger was badly injured by the closing of a door on a train.

DRIVEN TO DEATH BY FEAR OF KNIFE

UPTON, Oct. 30.—Barnabas C. Rider of Sunset, aged nearly eighty-two years, committed suicide at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Whitney, by shooting himself with a revolver. Apparently he had stood in front of a mirror in a bedroom with the door locked when he fired the shot into his head at the right temple. He had dreaded a minor surgical operation and this is thought to have led him to take his life.

SHE USED FLATIRON AS AID TO SUICIDE

GREENWICH, N. Y., Oct. 30.—While despondent Mrs. Marie G. Baitle, matron of the Washington County Home for Aged Women, [illegible] a flatiron to her neck with cord and [illegible]ped into a creek. Her body was found [illegible] three feet of water.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

It is believed that the advance in the market means that there has been a definite turn in sentiment and that it is not merely a rally. But the list has advanced sharply and a reaction would be perfectly natural.

$ $ $

Bullish activity in the commodity markets, conducted simultaneously with the bull movement in securities, led some conservative interests to believe that the easier tendency of money, which was the cause of both, could not continue in the face of such a stimulation of demand as the outburst of speculation seemed likely to produce.

$ $ $

The probable character of the bank statement is more discussed than perhaps any other factor, and it is the prevailing expectation that should the banks succeed in showing a further strengthening of their surplus reserves, the effect upon the stock market would be decidedly stimulating.

$ $ $

Even if money should not for the present show any great tendency towards ease, the factor is not likely henceforth to be adverse in the same degree that it was a few weeks ago in its relation to the stock market.

$ $ $

It is only a question of how easy money is whether Southern Pacific gets 7 per cent and New York Central 6 per cent at the next declaration. Pennsylvania may increase its dividend also and will certainly give valuable rights.

$ $ $

Many conservative bankers objected seriously to the activity of Amalgamated Copper, but it seems that for once there is some legitimate speculative excuse at least for action of this security.

$ $ $

Amalgamated is so widely scattered that the average holding of the stock is under 100 shares. There is a short interest for the acount of rich men that already shows such large losses it is on the verge of running for power. In addition to this, the leading copper producers have for more than a year been so far apart that they were even personal enemies. Men who will not speak as they pass by cannot do business together. J. P. Morgan & Co. have taken the matter in hand and whipped everybody into line. The result is an era of good feeling among copper producers and they expect this in a short time to be reflected in a better market for copper metal.

$ $ $

A vast surplus of unconsumed copper metal lies in the foundries of consumers and the warehouses of producers. But this, as has been often stated in this column, is a bull argument on the general stock market and not necessarily a bear argument on first-class copper stocks. If the Amalgamated should get some of the good porphyry coppers it could become a great copper company itself. The speculative situation in Amalgamated and the investment situation in the porphyries present an opportunity for considerable activity in the various stocks involved. Amalgamated is far too high on its merits, built under present circumstances it could advance without endangering the market.

$ $ $

The fact that many millions of the new capital to be raised by railroads will be used for electrifying mountain divisions and for paying for equipment is an argument in favor of the copper shares. Great quantities of copper must be used for these purposes. But for every pound of copper used in electrifying a railroad, six pounds of iron or steel must be used. Therefore it is even a greater argument in favor of higher prices for steel. The prices of steel are being advanced again and there is talk of a movement of from $2 to $4 a ton higher by the independents and the trust.

$ $ $

An expert on Steel stock, who has usually been very correct in the past, said that from talks with directors of the trust he felt safe in estimating an increase of 750,000 tons monthly in unfilled orders up to the end of the year. This will give the trust about seven millions of unfilled orders for a certainty at the end of the December quarter.

$ $ $

Undoubtedly the leading financial interests hold the market under perfect control. There is comparatively little investment liquidation, for the reason that it is generally recognized that values are increasing.

$ $ $

On the other hand, the firmer position of money recently has forced or induced much speculative liquidation and short selling which naturally have combined to strengthen the technical position.

Achievement number of the Sunday American will be issued tomorrow. About 126 pages. Greatest Sunday newspaper ever published in New England. If YOU want it order it to-day. The demand is extraordinary.

SEEN THE PABLO? NEW STORM COAT

The Pablo is the name of a new storm coat which is offered at an unusually low price of $9.90 by the F. Gray Company, corner of Washington and Hanover streets. This garment is made from Scotch Angolas in fancy stripes and is cut with full military shoulders. It is fifty-two inches long with auto collar and sleeve cuffs, and the Gray Company declares that it is equal in value to storm coats offered at twice that price in many other places.

BOY OF 12 DUG HIS OWN MOTHER'S GRAVE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 30.—Too poor to pay for the work, Richard Swinford, twelve, dug his mother's grave. While filling it after the body had been placed in it the boy collapsed into the excavation.

DINNER FOR 5,000 IN BIG DRY DOCK

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—Five thousand persons are to dine in the biggest floating dry dock in the world next Tuesday. They are delegates to the deep waterways convention. The huge dock will be lowered to the water's edge for the tables.

NORTH DAKOTA PROVES SPEEDY

End of the campaign. Who will be elected, Vahey or Draper, Pelletier or Hill? The Sunday American will sum up both sides, Republican and Democratic, and give estimates of the majorities of the winners. Every voter will want the Sunday American to know who is going to be elected.

COPPER STOCK DISAPPOINTING

STATE STREET, Oct. 30.—Closing—Copper shares were a bit disappointing this forenoon after yesterday's display of buoyancy. This was natural enough in view of the fact that it is the last day of the week, followed by a stock market holiday next Tuesday, election day.

Prices opened off from last night's closing, although in many cases recovery followed while some rose to still higher levels. Amalgamated after opening at 86½, fell to 86, but subsequently recovered to 86⅝. Steel common yielded to 90, with partial recovery from this.

There is nothing new to report on the proposed copper combination so that with the profit taking less interest was manifested in price movements in general. American Zinc made a new high for the present movement, touching 37. Arizona Commercial also stiffened, reaching 46. North Butte was heavy and broke a point to 59⅝.

Considerable activity developed in Rotary Ring and the price advanced to 12¾.

There was a good volume of business on the curb. Cumberland & Ely and First National and Ohio Copper advanced fractionally. Union Copper was active and Ely Consolidated was firm.

TO GIVE AWAY BIG NEW YORK ESTATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Miss Louise McAllister, daughter of the late Ward McAllister social arbiter of the "Four Hundred" twenty years ago, has fallen heir to a fortune of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. The estate was left by her second cousin, Henry G. Gibbons of Philadelphia and Chicago, with the explanation that she would be able to dispose of it much more wisely than he.

Although there are no clauses in the will stipulating how she shall use the money, a close friend said that Miss McAllister would undoubtedly devote every cent to charity.

"Already a large part of the fortune left by her grandfather, Matthew Hall McAllister, has been used in unostentatious charity," declared this friend. "There are scores of women in this city and in cities of the South with whom Miss McAllister has family affiliations, who have been put on their feet through her quiet assistance. She rarely gave to organizations, believing rather in the old fashioned neighborly benevolence."

CRAZED LAD PUT IN CELL AFTER FIGHT

Crazed by overstudy, Raymond Lord, nineteen years old, of No. 19 Parker street, Melrose, fought off a policeman and attacked his parents savagely when they talked of having his mental condition examined. A physician found that he was insane, and he was taken to the asylum at Danvers.

Lord had been studying hard, and had been devoting so much time to practice with the football team of the Melrose High School that he did not sleep well. A few days ago he left his home, riding his father's bicycle, and disappeared. A police alarm for him was sent out, and when an Everett policeman saw him riding the wheel he tried to stop him. Lord did not stop but ran the wheel into the policeman, knocking him down. When he returned home, without the wheel, he said that he had forgotten where he had left it.

As his condition grew worse his parents asked that a policeman be sent to watch him. The sight of the policeman was the last straw, and he became so violent that his commitment was necessary.

THE FLIER, THE SINGER AND THE FINANCIER

One Man of Genius, One Man of Talent and One Man of Greed as Travelling Companions

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

On a steamer now sailing for America are Orville Wright, Enrico Caruso and Thomas F. Ryan, all first cabin passengers, who, no doubt, frequently meet on the deck and in the cabins of the great vessel.

There is no doubt that Mr. Caruso and Mr. Ryan each believes himself the greatest of living men. Mr. Wright is more modest, but it is quite possible that he looks down upon his two travelling companions, and their achievements.

Could these men talk to each other freely and frankly, as men often want to talk, but never do, it may be imagined that Mr. Ryan would say:

"You fellows are all right in your little lines, but you are not real successes. I could buy both of you. I have money enough to hire you, Wright, to fly on my Virginia farm for the rest of your life, and for my personal enjoyment. I could force you to do that if I wanted to, backing other inventors of flying machines, and making aeroplanes so cheap that you could never make a living out of the work of your brains.

"I could hire you, Caruso, to sing for me every night, paying you twice as much as you get at the Metropolitan Opera House, and never miss the money. If you refused, I could acquire control of the opera house, and reduce your income to that of a chorus singer.

"I do not do these things, but the fact that I COULD do them proves that beside me you two fellows are pygmies."

To this Caruso might say:

"You are a mere money-maker. You know nothing of art, or of life. I can stand before five thousand people and make them weep with delight. You could not make them even look at you for more than a minute—just long enough to satisfy their curiosity as to what a man looks like who has taken away millions from other people. As to Wright, here, he is a mechanician, a man who understands machinery, perhaps, and who has made some trifling inventions, but who is dead to art, which is life, and eternity, and everything."

We can imagine Wright replying:

"You have a voice, Caruso, but it was given you by the Creator. Your capacity to delight is not the work of your brain, but the gift of Providence. You, Ryan, have a brain, but instead of using it to build up, you have used it to tear down. You have let other men construct great enterprises by their brains, and then, by financial trickery, you have taken those enterprises away from them.

"It is such men as you who fatten on the thoughts of other men, and discourage inventors like me, who work, and work hard, with hands and brains for years, never sure that when we have done something really useful, a wealthy manipulator will not cheat us out of the fruits of our years of thought and toil.

"I have tried to do something useful, and succeeded. I cannot see how either of you really compare with me in greatness."

Perhaps, because of the phonograph, Caruso's voice may still be heard, the records gradually becoming dim and indistinct, like the echo of his beautiful voice in the ears of those who have been delighted by it.

For a few years the work of Mr. Ryan will be felt, and resented. But the work of a destroyer is soon destroyed. The wrecked street railroads, and the watered securities will, in time, recover, and Thomas F. Ryan will not even be a memory.

What of Wright?

Every time men glance toward the sky and see airships sailing abroad they will think of him and of his brother.

Every improvement upon his invention will bring him fresh credit. Every successful adaptation of the aeroplane to practical purposes will be linked with the name of the brothers who first proved that it was possible to fly at all.

Of the three men on that steamer one has achieved permanent fame, and that one is neither a singer nor a financier.

Schley Says "We Die Too Young"

Admiral Schley, passing his seventieth birthday, found time to utter several truisms on longevity. While there was nothing strikingly new in this philosophy of a seafaring man, his words may well call at least a momentary halt on the headlong flight of American men of to-day. While they ponder the admiral's brief sermon they may realize its truths, and temper their activities accordingly.

"We die too young," says the admiral, and he backs up his assertion by naming Harriman, Jay Gould and Rogers as examples of his theory. However, his cure for this fatal worry and rush is not inaction. Admiral Schley believes in men who do things, and places himself in that class.

The moral of his teaching is the old one—WORRY, NOT WORK, KILLS. Hard work, properly systematized, into which a man puts his best conscientious effort rarely, if ever, kills. The deadly combination is worry, or the gambler's vain hope that work carelessly done, or neglected, or speculatively undertaken will turn out right somehow.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

REMINDS HIM

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The Katzenjammer Kids are my preference in the SUNDAY AMERICAN, as they perform such witty things for kids.

Mutt is very good, but I prefer the Hall-Room Boys to any in the daily AMERICAN, because they are a counterpart of many whom we see and meet daily. They also remind me of two young men who resided in Boston about the time that the Hall-Room boys first made their appearance in the AMERICAN. H. E. W.

ELECTROCUTIONS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The recent electrocutions have again brought to our minds the subject of capital punishment. There is every day an increasing number of people who feel that this practice of "State murder" is a disgrace to our civilization, who look forward to the day when it will be abolished. It is comparatively easy for a jury to bring in a verdict against one of their [illegible] brothers when they can shift the "actual killing" onto other shoulders.

Arrange thirteen push buttons around the electric chair in such a manner that the current would not pass through the condemned man until all of the thirteen buttons were pushed down. Now bring in your judge and jury and place one at each of the push buttons.

I have faith enough in the goodness of man's nature to believe that if such were the method capital punishment would become a thing of the past.

WILL TELL YOU!

Which Man Do You Want for District-Attorney?

Both candidates for District-Attorney measure up to the requirements of the office. It is rare that voters have so little to choose between in two men running for such a high office.

Arthur D. Hill, the present District-Attorney, and candidate to succeed himself, is a lawyer of ability. He has A GOOD RECORD. He has performed his duties in a manner to show that he understands what is required of him.

Hill, is, unfortunately for himself, a cog in the Lodge-Draper Republican machine. He was appointed because he is a Republican.

His opponent, Mr. Joseph C. Pelletier, is a Democrat. He is a very able lawyer. He has A SPLENDID RECORD. HIS PAST IS CLEAN. He has made a vigorous campaign, and has given to the voters a very clear statement of the program he will adopt if he is chosen District-Attorney. Judged by his public utterances Pelletier seems to have more of the judicial temperament than his opponent, and the District-Attorney, it should be remembered, is a JUDICIAL OFFICER.

Hill, like Pelletier, has made some promises, which, if kept, ought to take THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY'S OFFICE OUT OF POLITICS. Neither a Democrat nor a Republican is wanted there.

WHAT IS WANTED, however, is a man whose office door will be always open to the people, a place where complaints may be made, and investigated speedily, looking only to meeting the ends of justice.

In the Democratic city of Boston, now governed by Republican commissions, the people have no place to go for redress of their wrongs EXCEPT to the District-Attorney.

This official, backed by the Grand Jury, and the courts, has the amplest power to investigate and prosecute, and to see to it that some of the people's rights, guaranteed under the Constitution, are UPHELD.

The District-Atorney can act, and act quickly. There is NO PERSON in the community that he cannot reach at once if the LAW IS VIOLATED, or the rights of the people ignored.

He should stand for all the people regardless of party affiliations or "pull." He is not always a prosecutor. He should never be a persecutor. He should have a judicial mind, be courageous in his actions, erring, if at all, on the side of the people, standing always for the right.

WHICH MAN DO YOU WANT for District-Attorney—Hill or Pelletier? Both have made promises, the half of which properly performed would revolutionize Boston. Both are able men.

Think the matter over thoroughly. The vote for District-Attorney is always THE MOST IMPORTANT ONE CAST.

And after you have thought it over, vote for the man YOU consider best fitted for the office.

In the Barnyard

By WEX JONES

THE little red hen was as mad as could be,
As she clucked out her thoughts in a petulant key.
She assembled the other hens out in the yard,
And the things that she said were exceedingly hard.
"Why on earth should we poultry," said the little red hen,
"Spend our lives being robbed by the creatures called men?
If there's one single reason, pray tell me, I beg,
Why I should be robbed when I lay a new egg?"

"Why doesn't the farmer supply us with corn—
And why should we stand and cluck-clack and curse,
When a change of conditions might make for the worse?
I'm very well pleased," said the speaker, "for one,
With men as our boss and the way things are run."

The little red hen said, "We get our own grub
The farmer, he takes all our eggs, and his knife
From the best of our children dissevers the life;
And then, when he throws us a handful of oats,
You acclaim his kind nature in tremulous notes."
But the other turned and scattered afar,

And so in return for a handful of oats
